President Signs Voting Age Bill, Wants Court Test

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon has signed into law a bill lowering the voting age to 18 despite doubts about the measure's legality.

He directed the attorney general to seek a swift court test of its constitutionality and, at the same time, urged Congress to proceed with legislation to lower the voting age by constitutional amendment.

The 18-year-old vote provision was attached to a measure extending the Voting Rights Act of 1965 for five years. The act has been credited with enabling a million blacks to register in the South and figured prominently in Nixon's decision to sign the measure.

"Despite my misgivings about the constitutionality of this one provision, I have today signed the bill," Nixon said in a statement Monday.

"If I were to veto, I would have to veto the entire bill—voting rights and all," he said.

The Voting Rights Act will stand even if the courts struck down the 18-year-old vote provision.

"Because the basic provisions of this act are of great importance, therefore I am giving it my approval and leaving the decision on the disputed provision to what I hope will be a swift resolution by the courts," the President added.

The measure giving 18-year-olds the right to vote will not affect this year's state and congressional elections, since it doesn't become effective until Jan. 1. The act covers all federal, state and municipal elections.

A White House source said Atty. Gen. John Mitchell probably would seek a court test, but added the bulk of the arguments probably would be made by interested parties or friends of the court instead of the government.

Anyone could seek a constitutional test, the source added. The suit could be filed directly with the Supreme Court or with a special three-judge federal court with direct appeal to the high court.

Nixon's plea for Congress to proceed with legislation to lower the voting age by constitutional amendment was to avoid any unnecessary delays in lowering the voting age. He has long favored giving 18-year-olds the right to vote.

Nixon seeks a quick court test to avoid any future election problems that might result if 18-year-olds were permitted to vote and their ballots were later declared illegal.

Demo Solons Deny Part In Fraud

BALTIMORE, Md. (AP) — Two Louisiana Democratic congressmen named by Nixon to be charged in a proposed grand jury indictment against a Baltimore contractor have denied any wrongdoing in the case.

They are Sen. Russell B. Long and Rep. Hale Boggs.

A federal judge confirmed late Monday parts of news reports describing results of a 17-month grand jury investigation, but upheld the right of the Justice Department to prevent an indictment from being signed.

Chief Judge Roszel C. Thomsen of U.S. District Court issued a summary of the federal grand jury presentment and a Justice Department memorandum stating, "There is insufficient legal basis and supporting evidence to prove the charges made by the grand jury."

The summary noted, "The grand jury does not charge that any improper payment was made to any public official."

The case stems from alleged attempts by Victor Frenkil and his firm, Baltimore Contractors Inc., to obtain government approval of an additional $5 million in cost for an $11.7 million parking garage for the Rayburn Office Building in Washington.

The judge's summary stated that Frenkil and his company were the only defendants named in the grand jury document, but that it also listed as co-conspirators Bernard Shepard, a vice president of Frenkil's firm, and "other persons to the grand jury known and unknown."

Scientific Accident Holds Muscular Dystrophy Hope

WASHINGTON (AP) — Serendipity—in the form of a scientific accident—has led to a discovery that may help find the cause of crippling muscular dystrophy, so far an incurable disease.

Dr. Ade T. Milhorat, a New York medical researcher, reported to the White House Monday that chemicals derived from vegetable oils have reversed the muscle-disintegrating process in chickens—the first such reversal in any living creature.

Milhorat, however, cautioned against premature hopes the chicken experiments would assure a new treatment for humans.

"We believe," he said in a letter to Mrs. Richard Nixon "that these observations will lead to a more complete understanding of the cause and nature of muscular dystrophy. We hope, but cannot predict, their role in the treatment of the disease in other species, including man."

But he also told the President's wife the chicken-test results were so promising that human trials of at least some of the compounds are envisioned.

More than 200,000 Americans—mostly young boys—suffer from the disease.

Milhorat, director of the Institute for Muscle Disease, Inc., told a reporter it's possible human trials could begin within a few months—provided the recently-identified, "active principle" chemicals pass rigid safety tests already under way in other experimental animals. And he voiced confidence the chemicals would pass the tests.

Asked why vegetable oils happened to be tested in the first place, Milhorat said some scientists at his institute planned last-ditch tests in chickens of a laboratory-produced compound called "Coenzyme Q."

The latter material, first reported in 1965 by Dr. Karl Folkers, of Stanford Research Institute, had initially brought about an "apparent improvement" in mice genetically afflicted with muscular dystrophy.

But the initial promise failed to hold up in later mouse tests, Milhorat said. "Before we discarded it completely," he said, scientists decided to try it on dystrophic chickens.

"They asked me: 'What shall we use to dilute it?,' and I said 'Try safflower oil,'" reported Milhorat. He said he had long had a scientific interest in vegetable oils for reasons having nothing to do with muscular dystrophy.

As things turned out, he said, the mixture worked—but it was later found that it was something in the oil itself, and not the chemical it was carrying, that was doing the trick.

Glenn Campaign Cost $330,073

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — John H. Glenn's unsuccessful bid for the Democratic Senate nomination cost $330,073, and $163,434 of it still is unpaid, according to campaign expense reports filed with the Ohio secretary of state.

Howard Metzbaum, who beat Glenn for the nomination, spent $812,530 in the May 5 primary campaign.

Glenn said his national reputation would make the difference in November when the Democratic candidate takes on Republican Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller. "Samuels cannot defeat Rockefeller," he declared.

Goldberg said his national reputation would make the difference in November when the Democratic candidate takes on Republican Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller. "Samuels cannot defeat Rockefeller," he declared.

Reds Drive Cambodian Unit From Villages On Mekong

SAIGON (AP) — North Vietnamese troops drove a Cambodian battalion from two villages on the Mekong River about 11 miles northeast of Phnom Penh, and the retreating battalion commander said his men had discovered a Soviet rocket that could hit the capital.

As the battalion commander, Maj. Ros Preung, stood on the river bank at Mouk Khampoul, four Cambodian T28 planes attacked the occupied villages with napalm, setting most of the thatch and wood buildings afire. Cambodian troops said the villagers had fled to the south when an estimated 1,000 North Vietnamese attacked early today.

Preung said his battalion of 400 men was hit from three sides and forced into the river. They retreated by fishing boats to the west bank. He said four of his men were killed and about 20 wounded, but he claimed they killed at least 30 Viet Cong and North Vietnamese.

The Viet Cong and North Vietnamese now have the upper hand along much of the Mekong where it courses down through eastern Cambodia. The only government stronghold left between Mouk Khampoul and the Lao border is at Tonle Bet and Kompong Cham, 50 miles northeast of Phnom Penh.

This new pressure on Phnom Penh from the northeast was coupled with reports that two North Vietnamese regiments were establishing positions around Prey Veng, a provincial capital 31 miles east of the national capital, for what may be a major attack. An attack on Prey Veng could be the prelude to the drive on Phnom Penh which military sources in the Cambodian capital expect.

South Vietnamese forces in Cambodia reported three clashes—two near the border southeast of Kompong Cham and one near Takeo—in which a total of 37 Viet Cong and North Vietnamese and four South Vietnamese were killed. The U.S. Command reported three Americans killed and 15 wounded in skirmishing near the border, with a total of 10 enemy soldiers killed.

Consumer Credit Practices Called Harsh And Unjust

WASHINGTON (AP) — A consumer advocate says creditors often use harsh tactics "not merely to collect bad debts, but also to intimidate debtors and keep them in line when they have valid defenses."

David Caplovitz, joined by Ralph Nader and other witnesses, before the National Commission on Consumer Finance Monday, also described other collection practices he said were especially hard on the poor and undereducated.

Under particular attack were garnishment of wages, telephone threats, failure to deliver court summonses, and small claims courts.

Caplovitz said garnishment of up to 50 per cent of an employee's wages is allowed in some states. Even the threat of garnishment is enough for some employees to fire a worker rather than go through the expense of changing a computer-controlled payroll, he told the commission.

But the most serious flaw of garnishment, Caplovitz said, "is that it provides the creditor with a powerful club for forcing the debtor to resume payments even when he has legitimate defenses."

"Some 44 per cent of the default-debtors we interviewed reported that their employers had been contacted by their creditors and warned about garnishment proceedings if the debt were not settled."

"These prejudgment communications between creditor and employer raise a variety of legal issues, ranging from unfair coercion and denial of due process to invasion of privacy," he said.

Nader told the commission that credit cards, now so popular in a nation with a total consumer debt of $100 billion, are inflationary.

He said they add 6 to 7 per cent to everyone's restaurant bill and in some cases are preferred to cash.

Nader also challenged the assumption that the debtor is "a deadbeat," unwilling to pay and evasive in his obligations.

He said this definition applies only to 10 per cent of debtors.

Welfare Director Calls For Licenses

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — State Welfare Director Denver L. White says operators of day care facilities for children should apply soon for licenses required by Oct. 1.

The law applies to all public and private homes, nursery schools, privately operated kindergartens, playgroups and Head Start programs, as well as day care centers.

White urged operators to apply soon because of the time required for inspections.

Solons Want Rail Carrier Investigation

WASHINGTON (AP) — Two congressmen have called for an investigation of all the nation's rail carriers following Penn Central's reorganization under bankruptcy laws.

Sen. Jacob K. Javits and Rep. Ogden Reid, New York Republicans, said Monday they would seek a joint congressional investigation. Moments earlier Javits announced he was prepared to introduce a bill to set up a $750-million loan guarantee program for railroads.

A similar bill has been introduced in the House.

The Penn Central reorganized under an order issued by U.S. District Judge C. William Kraft Jr. in Philadelphia.

Transportation Secretary John Volpe said he thinks the railroad will continue to operate normally if the bankruptcy case is handled properly.

The announcement of the reorganization caused a flurry of trading on the New York Stock Exchange Monday and the price of the stock closed at $6.50, down $4.63. Trading was delayed because of an influx of orders until just before the market's close, when 450,000 shares changed hands.

Sen. Vance Hartke, D-Ind., said his Senate surface transportation subcommittee will conduct a full scale review of events leading to the Penn Central's bankruptcy filing.

The railroad opened a new set of books one minute after midnight Monday under terms of the court order.

The bankruptcy proceeding apparently was prompted by the Defense Department's refusal to guarantee a $200 million bank loan.

GOP Chiefs Will Hear Cloud Stand

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Republican Party chiefs are faced again today with the thorny problem of what to do with two key candidates involved in the state loans and campaign contributions scandal.

It was the third meeting in less than a month of the Republican State Central and Executive Committee, which decided June 4 to ask Treasurer John D. Herbert and Sen. Robin T. Turner to withdraw from the November ballot.

Herbert, GOP nominee for attorney general, and Turner, the party's candidate for treasurer, both have declined.

Expected to be a star witness at today's meeting was Auditor Roger Cloud, Republican candidate for governor, who first asked Herbert and Turner to withdraw.

He was to discuss special audits made of the treasurer's office and the state School Employees Retirement System.

There was speculation that the committee also might want to ask Cloud to explain how his position on campaign contributions differs from those of Herbert and Turner.

Herbert, Turner and Cloud all received primary campaign contributions from officers of Crofters, Inc., which arranged more than $50 million in questionable loans to private companies by either the treasurer's office or SERS.

Cloud and Herbert returned the contributions but Turner spent his on the campaign.

Another matter before the committee was appointment of a candidate for an Ohio Supreme Court seat vacated by C. William O'Neill when he was named chief justice.

Nixon Vetoes Hill-Burton Law Extension

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon has vetoed a $1.26 billion, three-year extension of the Hill-Burton hospital aid program because it would have been "a long step down the road of fiscal irresponsibility."

Nixon's Monday veto of the bill, which would have authorized $1.26 billion in hospital construction and remodeling grants over three years, was the first in the 24-year history of the Hill-Burton program. Hill-Burton has helped build more than 9,000 hospitals.

Nixon objected most strongly to a provision that would have required him to spend every dollar appropriated for the program through fiscal 1973. He also criticized the measure because it exceeded his budget request by $350 million.

He said making the program "untouchable" would "significantly restrict presidential options in managing federal expenditures."

Unless Congress can override the veto—which would take a two-thirds vote of each house—it must rewrite the bill in a form acceptable to the President or the popular program will die. The program ends at the close of the present fiscal year next Tuesday.

Nixon's veto was only his second since he took office 17 months ago. The other disapproved bill was a Health, Education and Welfare measure he vetoed last January on grounds it would have contributed to rising prices.

Sen. Ralph Yarborough, D-Tex., one of the sponsors of the vetoed Hill-Burton bill, said Nixon's action "is a slap in the face of every sick American needing hospitalization."

The Hill-Burton program originally was designed to help build hospitals in small towns and rural areas, but has changed to allow for aiding deteriorating hospitals in cities.

Man Charged In Bank Holdup

YOUNGSTOWN, Ohio (AP) — The FBI has charged James Clair Hilty Jr., 27, of Warren, with the robbery of the Lordsburg branch of the Second National Bank of Warren last Nov. 28.

The FBI filed a detainer Monday on Hilty, who will be arraigned before U.S. Commissioner Thomas Moore following his release from Woodside Receiving Hospital here.

Hilty is accused by the FBI of being one of two men who took $19,955 from the bank.

GOP Takes Over On Tonkin Gulf Repeal

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate debate over Cambodia has taken an unexpected turn with a Republican move to take over an issue dear to the hearts of antiwar Democrats—repeal of the Tonkin Gulf resolution.

Sen. Robert J. Dole, R-Kan., introduced the repealer late Monday, conceding it was an effort to seize the initiative for the White House, which has suffered several defeats in the month and a half of debate.

The Tonkin Gulf resolution, passed overwhelmingly in 1964, was used by President Lyndon B. Johnson as the basis for the massive U.S. intervention in Vietnam.

It has since been the object of criticism by the antiwar elements in the Senate, but not all the doves welcomed Dole's move.

"I do not favor the approach the senator from Kansas is taking," said Sen. J. W. Fulbright. "I think it is untimely and inappropriate. But I do favor repeal of Tonkin."

The Arkansas Democrat said Dole, a freshman, "hasn't been here very long and has no feeling for the committee system. . . . You just don't override usual, established customs."

In the heated floor exchange that followed, Dole said, "I didn't know you can't offer an amendment on the floor without approval of the senator from Arkansas or someone who has been here longer than me."

Fulbright lost the first round to Dole when his motion to table the repeal amendment failed 67 to 15.

The Foreign Relations Committee already has approved a separate resolution repealing Tonkin.

But antiwar senators had hoped to use the resolution as a vehicle for prolonged debate on Nixon's Southeast Asia policy—once the current debate on Cambodia is out of the way.

The Dole amendment is designed to head this off as well as to give the President a chance to take positive action and sign a bill that includes a Tonkin repealer.

NEW SIGN — The sign directing Route 23 travelers to the site of the Pickaway County Airport has been erected. Looking over plans for the landing strip are, from the left, Dr. Robert Liggett, Doyle Spangler, Chaney Vance, Asa Elsea and Kenneth Shepler. Land was donated for the sign by Kenneth and Gladys Shepler. Elsea and Liggett represent the Circleville Jaycees, who have been active in raising funds for construction of the airport, and Vance and Spangler represent the Chamber of Commerce. Not present for the photo were Robert Johnson, chairman of the airport authority and Frank Bowling Jr., vice chairman. To be completed in November, work on the strip is well ahead of schedule.

Preung said his battalion of 400 men was hit from three sides and forced into the river. They retreated by fishing boats to the west bank. He said four of his men were killed and about 20 wounded, but he claimed they killed at least 30 Viet Cong and North Vietnamese.

The Viet Cong and North Vietnamese now have the upper hand along much of the Mekong where it courses down through eastern Cambodia. The only government stronghold left between Mouk Khampoul and the Laotian border is at Tonle Bet and Kompong Cham, 50 miles northeast of Phnom Penh.

This new pressure on Phnom Penh from the northeast was coupled with reports that two North Vietnamese regiments were establishing positions around Prey Veng, a provincial capital 31 miles east of the national capital, for what may be a major attack. An attack on Prey Veng could be the prelude to the drive on Phnom Penh which military sources in the Cambodian capital expect.

South Vietnamese forces in Cambodia reported three clashes—two near the border south-east of Kompong Cham and one near Takeo—in which a total of 37 Viet Cong and North Vietnamese and four South Vietnamese were killed. The U.S. Command reported three Americans killed and 15 wounded in skirmishing near the border, with a total of 10 enemy soldiers killed.

Consumer Credit Practices Called Harsh And Unjust

WASHINGTON (AP) — A consumer advocate says creditors often use harsh tactics "not merely to collect bad debts, but also to intimidate debtors and keep them in line when they have valid defenses."

David Caplovitz, joined by Ralph Nader and other witnesses, before the National

Commission on Consumer Finance Monday, also described other collection practices he said were especially hard on the poor and undereducated.

Under particular attack were garnishment of wages, telephone threats, failure to deliver court summonses, and small claims courts.

Caplovitz said garnishment of up to 50 per cent of an employee's wages is allowed in some states. Even the threat of garnishment is enough for some employers to fire a worker rather than go through the expense of changing a computer-controlled payroll, he told the commission.

But the most serious flaw of garnishment, Caplovitz said, "is that it provides the creditor with a powerful club for forcing the debtor to resume payments even when he has legitimate defenses."

"Some 44 per cent of the default-debtors we interviewed reported that their employers had been contacted by their creditors and warned about garnishment proceedings if the debt were not settled."

"These prejudgment communications between creditor and employer raise a variety of legal issues, ranging from unfair coercion and denial of due process to invasion of privacy," he said.

Nader told the commission that credit cards, now so popular in a nation with a total consumer debt of $100 billion, are inflationary.

He said they add 6 to 7 per cent to everyone's restaurant bill and in some cases are preferred to cash.

Nader also challenged the assumption that the debtor is "a deadbeat," unwilling to pay and evasive in his obligations.

He said this definition applies only to 10 per cent of debtors.

Welfare Director Calls For Licenses

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — State Welfare Director Denver L. White says operators of day care facilities for children should apply soon for licenses required by Oct. 1.

The law applies to all public and private homes, nursery schools, privately operated kindergartens, playgroups, and Head Start programs, as well as day care centers. White urged operators to apply soon because of the time required for inspections.

Solons Want Rail Carrier Investigation

WASHINGTON (AP) — Two congressmen have called for an investigation of all the nation's rail carriers following Penn Central's reorganization under bankruptcy laws.

Sen. Jacob K. Javits and Rep. Ogden Reid, New York Republicans, said Monday they would seek a joint congressional investigation. Moments earlier Javits announced he was prepared to introduce a bill to set up a $750-million loan guarantee program for railroads.

A similar bill has been introduced in the House.

The Penn Central reorganization under an order issued by U.S. District Judge C. William Kraft Jr. in Philadelphia.

Transportation Secretary John Volpe said he thinks the railroad will continue to operate normally if the bankruptcy case is handled properly.

The announcement of the reorganization caused a flurry of trading on the New York Stock Exchange Monday and the price of the stock closed at $6.50, down $4.63. Trading was delayed because of an influx of orders until just before the market's close, when 450,000 shares changed hands.

Sen. Vance Hartke, D-Ind., said his Senate surface transportation subcommittee will conduct a full scale review of events leading to the Penn Central's bankruptcy filing.

The railroad opened a new set of books one minute after midnight Monday under terms of the court order.

The bankruptcy proceeding apparently was prompted by the Defense Department's refusal to guarantee a $200 million bank loan.

GOP Chiefs Will Hear Cloud Stand

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Republican Party chieftains are faced again today with the thorny problem of what to do with two key candidates involved in the state loans and campaign contributions scandal.

It was the third meeting in less than a month of the Republican State Central and Executive Committee, which decided June 4 to ask Treasurer John D. Herbert and Sen. Robin T. Turner to withdraw from the November ballot.

Herbert, GOP nominee for attorney general, and Turner, the party's candidate for treasurer, both have declined.

Expected to be a star witness at today's meeting was Auditor Roger Cloud, Republican candidate for governor, who first asked Herbert and Turner to withdraw.

He was to discuss special audits made of the treasurer's office and the state School Employees Retirement System.

There was speculation that the committee also might want to ask Cloud to explain how his position on campaign contributions differs from those of Herbert and Turner.

Herbert, Turner and Cloud all received primary campaign contributions from officers of Crofters, Inc., which arranged more than $50 million in questionable loans to private companies by either the treasurer's office or SERS.

Cloud and Herbert returned the contributions but Turner spent his on the campaign.

Another matter before the committee was appointment of a candidate for an Ohio Supreme Court seat vacated by C. William O'Neill when he was named chief justice.

NEW SIGN — The sign directing Route 23 travelers to the site of the Pickaway County Airport has been erected. Looking over plans for the landing strip area, from the left, Dr. Robert Liggett, Doyle Spangler, Chaney Vance, Asa Elsea and Kenneth Shepler. Land was donated for the sign by Kenneth and Gladys Shepler. Elsea and Liggett represent the Circleville Jaycees, who have been active in raising funds for construction of the airport, and Vance and Spangler represent the Chamber of Commerce. Not present for the photo were Robert Johnson, chairman of the airport authority and Frank Bowling Jr., vice chairman. To be completed in November, work on the strip is well ahead of schedule.

Pentagon Says Latest Move Not Escalation

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States has extended the Indochina air war deep into Cambodia for the first time with American pilots ranging far and wide in search of enemy targets.

In making the disclosure Monday, the Pentagon said U.S. planes have been striking at enemy troop and supply lines nearly every day for almost a week.

Officials indicated the bombing missions are likely to continue—probably on a daily basis if weather permits—long past the June 30 pullout deadline for American troops.

The White House declined to say whether any limitations have been placed on the aircraft.

One official conceded the flights could indirectly help Cambodian forces. If American planes bombed routes used to supply Communist forces fighting Cambodians, the official said, the Cambodians would benefit from the attacks.

However, he insisted, the chief purpose of the attacks is to interdict supply lines and not provide air support for Cambodian forces.

Until the new air strikes were announced, enemy targets were thought to have been limited to

Senate OKs Funding Bill

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate has passed a $7-billion supplemental appropriations bill for the waning fiscal year, minus $150 million President Nixon had asked for schools with desegregation problems.

The bill passed 76-2 Monday night in the first of a series of evening sessions called to dispose of pressing business that has been piling up during the Senate's extended debate over Cambodia.

The bill was sent to a conference with the House. The current fiscal year ends next Tuesday.

The desegregation money was knocked out on a technicality. Sen. John Stennis, D-Miss., who said he thought some of the money might go to Northern big-city schools that would not have to desegregate at all, successfully raised a point of order that the $150 million appropriation had not been authorized previously.

The money was to be the first installment of a $1.5-billion, two-year program designed to help schools in the South and border states that are under orders to desegregate immediately.

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate debate over Cambodia has taken an unexpected turn with a Republican move to take over an issue dear to the hearts of antiwar Democrats—repeal of the Tonkin Gulf resolution.

Sen. Robert J. Dole, R-Kan., introduced the repealer late Monday, conceding it was an effort to seize the initiative for the White House, which has suffered several defeats in the month and a half of debate. The Tonkin Gulf resolution, passed overwhelmingly in 1964, was used by President Lyndon B. Johnson as the basis for the massive U.S. intervention in Vietnam.

It has since been the object of criticism by the antiwar elements in the Senate, but not all the doves welcomed Dole's move.

"I do not favor the approach

the senator from Kansas is taking," said Sen. J. W. Fulbright. "I think it is untimely and inappropriate. But I do favor repeal of Tonkin."

The Arkansas Democrat said Dole, a freshman, "hasn't been here very long and has no feeling for the committee system.... You just don't override usual, established customs."

In the heated floor exchange that followed, Dole said, "I didn't know you can't offer an amendment on the floor without approval of the senator from Arkansas or someone who has been here longer than me."

Fulbright lost the first round to Dole when his motion to table the repeal amendment failed 67 to 15.

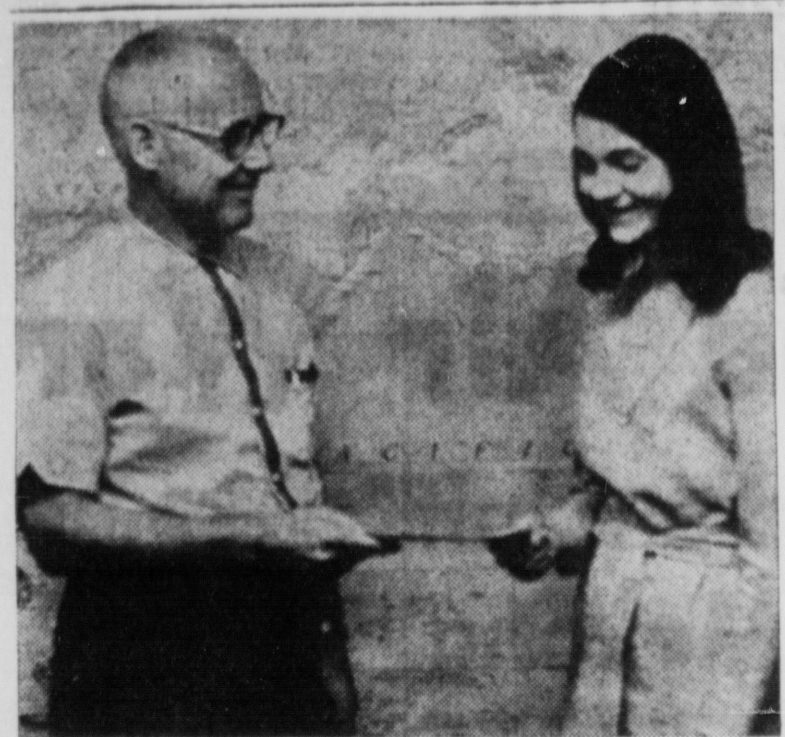

The Foreign Relations Committee already has approved a separate resolution repealing Tonkin.

But antiwar senators had hoped to use the resolution as a vehicle for prolonged debate on Nixon's Southeast Asia policy—once the current debate on Cambodia is out of the way.

The Dole amendment is designed to head this off as well as to give the President a chance to take positive action and sign a bill that includes a Tonkin repealer.

NATIONAL WINNER — Beth Rooker is shown receiving her $100 prize as fourth place winner in the national essay contest sponsored by the Assn. of American Physicians and Surgeons. A senior at Logan Elm, Beth earned second place in the local contest sponsored by the Pickaway County Medical Society. Other local winners were: Debbie Tallman, first; and Stan Seaburn, third, both students at Westfall. Beth is the daughter of Rev. and Mrs. Marion D. Rooker, Route 4. Making the presentation is Dr. Robert G. Smith, representative of the county medical association.

Irate Grader Operator Rips Up Road, Police Car

POINT ROBERTS, Wash. (AP) — An irate grader operator from Burnaby, B.C., plowed up a road Monday, bashed in the side of a police car, then barged across the U.S.-Canadian border in a fusillade of police bullets, authorities reported.

Police on both sides of the border later pieced together the details of the incident and gave this account:

The grader operator, Ernest R. Astells, 40, crossed the border into Point Roberts to collect $680 from contractor Philip Sopow for work done on 1,000 feet of blacktop road.

"I told him his work had been unsatisfactory and I had to bring in another contractor from Vancouver to do the work over again," said Sopow. The grader operator told Sopow he had a grader parked outside and would tear up the road if he wasn't paid.

Sopow later told authorities he thought it was a bluff, but telephoned. Deputy Sheriff Chad Caswell, who arrived just as the grader started gouging holes in the road.

Caswell parked his car in front of the grader which plowed ahead, taking a chunk out of the car. More police arrived.

The grader then headed for

Germ Weapons New Fertilizer

To Condition Soil Around Army Base.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Public health officials are reported ready to approve an Army plan to turn deadly war germs into a harmless "soil conditioner" to be spread around an Arkansas military base.

The soil conditioner was developed after President Nixon last November ordered all U.S. chemical and biological weapons destroyed by June 30, 1971.

Boris Osheroff, special assistant to the surgeon general, said in a telephone interview that health authorities were fully satisfied the Army's proposed methods would completely destroy both living organisms and nonliving organic toxins in the biological weapons, rendering them harmless.

The U.S. Public Health Service has been reviewing the Army's plans to destroy virtually its entire stockpile of biological weapons at the Pine Bluff Arsenal in Arkansas, where they are stored.

Small quantities of biological weaponry are slated for destruction at other, unidentified, locations.

The Army maintains tight secrecy over its biological warfare weapons but they are known to include the germs of deadly, and highly contagious diseases.

"That was the whole purpose," Osheroff said, "to get person-to-person spread."

Osheroff said health officials with security clearance "received full disclosure (about) every organism, including quantities and the way they are packaged," as well as a detailed description of the Army's plans to kill these organisms and destroy other toxic components.

"There is absolutely no chance of a living organism coming through intact," he said.

He said Surgeon General Jesse L. Steinfeld and acting deputy Paul Peterson, reviewing the Army plan were concerned with keeping the remains of the biological weapons from polluting the local environment upon disposal.

He said that was the reason authorities objected to an Army proposal to dump the residue—already sterilized—through a treatment plant and into the Arkansas River.

Stock List Goes Down

NEW YORK (AP) — Stock market prices dropped steadily this morning, falling below the 714 recovery level passed last Thursday.

Trading continued to be slow. At noon the Dow Jones average of 30 industrial stocks closed off 6.23 or .86 per cent at 709.88.

Declining issues led advances more than 2 to 1.

The bankruptcy action of the Penn Central's transportation division had some effect on the market, analysts said, but milder than expected so far.

Penn Central was delayed in opening again today because of an influx of orders. Monday it was off 4 1/4 at 6 1/4.

The low volume indicates many investors have adopted a wait-and-see attitude in terms of market participation to determine how great the effect of the news will be on the market, these analysts added.

All categories were off except for aircrafts and oils which were mixed.

At noon the Associated Press 60-stock index was off 1.7 at 238.2 with industrials off 3.1 rails off 0.8, and utilities off 0.3.

Wilmington May Get $12 Million Auto Race Track

WILMINGTON, Ohio (AP) — Plans for a $12 million auto race track here were announced today by the Ohio International Speedway Corp. It will include 100,000 seats.

The corporation, according to W. Emerson Rhodes, a broker with the W. E. Hutton Co., said the firm has taken options on 1,050 acres at $1,500 each.

Plans call for "big time" racing by September, 1971. Rhodes said it will include a 4,000 foot drag strip adjacent.

The main track will be 2.2 miles long, oval in shape and banks of 15 degrees.

The group Monday night requested a zoning change from the Clinton County Commission.

Pentagon officials insisted the new raids—possibly as deep as 100 miles inside Cambodia—represent no widening or escalation of the war. They said the raids are against enemy infiltration routes and not in support of South Vietnamese ground operations inside Cambodia.

The Nixon administration had left open the possibility of bombing enemy supply lines and bases beyond the 21.7-mile limit established by the President for U.S. ground troops.

Pentagon spokesman Jerry Friedheim defined interdiction as being "other than close air support of ground troops or strategic bombing."

Friedheim said the new bombing runs were initiated when it became clear the enemy had re-established its Cambodian river supply lines west of the sanctuary areas.

Before U.S. and South Vietnamese ground forces pushed into the sanctuary areas last month, the enemy had been bringing troops and supplies down the Ho Chi Minh Trail running south from Laos and along the Cambodian-South Vietnamese border.

Friedheim explained the air interdiction of the enemy's new infiltration routes in Cambodia is the same as the U.S. bombing of the trail in Laos. The latter raids have been conducted for five years but weren't made public until earlier this year.

'Pill' Use Approved In Local Clinic

The local Family Planning Clinic following discussion Monday night of the recent Nelson Sub-Committee hearing of Congress concerning the birth control pill endorsed continued use of oral contraceptives as recommended by the medical department of the Planned Parenthood Federation of America.

According to Circleville physicians, the report presented no information that was not already known to them.

The local Family Planning Clinic advises continued use of oral contraceptives provided medical guidelines are followed. The clinic stresses proper and thorough history taking, physical examinations before prescription of the pill and careful follow-up visits with annual breast and pelvic exams and pap smears.

With these precautions, the local clinic concludes the benefits of the oral contraceptive far outweigh the risks to these carefully chosen patients.

The clinic staff feel the inaccurate and sensational reports about the dangers of the contraceptive pill should not cause any woman to stop taking the pill until she has first consulted her physician. They added that other birth control methods are available to clinic women.

The staff also urges all clinic patients to continue to keep their Family Planning appointments the second and fourth Monday nights of each month.

American Rockwell, the firm that received more than $1 billion for all the Apollo command and service modules, doesn't contain a penalty clause. It is a cost-plus fixed fee contract and most of it has been paid.

Apollo 13 was nearing the moon April 13 when one of its two oxygen tanks blew up, knocking out all spacecraft power. Astronauts James A. Lovell Jr., Fred W. Haise Jr., and John L. Swigert Jr., limped home using propulsion and life-support systems of their lunar lander.

But the $375 million mission to land on the highlands of the moon was a failure.

The Apollo 13 review board blamed North American Rockwell, the Beech Aircraft Corp., and the space agency itself for "an unusual combination of mistakes, coupled with a somewhat deficient and unforgiving design."

It said the tank—built under subcontract by Beech—had inadequate protective switches, a loose fill tube and was inadequately tested. "It was a serious oversight in which all parties shared," the report said.

Since the Jan. 27, 1967, launch pad fire that cost the lives of three astronauts on Apollo 1, the contractors have received a fee of 5 to 6 per cent over cost, plus an additional award fee feature amounting to one half of one per cent.

That award fee remains to be paid for Apollo 13, but a determination of whether this will be withheld won't be made until next year when the fee board meets. The exact amount to be paid isn't available, but NASA spokesman Julian Scheer says it won't be more than $500,000.

North American Rockwell has six more Apollo spacecraft ready for the space agency, but the award fee won't apply to them, so there is even less provision for penalty should any fault be traceable to the manufacturer.

North American had been working on an incentive contract at the time of the Apollo 1 fire, and its fees were reduced by $15 million because of that accident. Additionally, the firm spent millions of dollars for subsequent improvements on the redesigned spacecraft.

The Apollo 13 review board report was one of three going to NASA Administrator Thomas O. Paine, who then will decide what changes must be made in the spacecraft before the next launching. The launch date for Apollo 13 is set for Dec. 3, in anticipation of changes.

At the end of this week Paine will receive reports from the Of

Irate Grader Operator Rips Up Road, Police Car

POINT ROBERTS, Wash. (AP) — An irate grader operator from Burnaby, B.C., plowed up a road Monday, bashed in the side of a police car, then barged across the U.S.-Canada border in a fusillade of police bullets, authorities reported.

Police on both sides of the border later pieced together the details of the incident and gave this account:

The grader operator, Ernest R. Astells, 40, crossed the border into Point Roberts to collect $680 from contractor Philip Sopow for work done on 1,000 feet of blacktop road.

"I told him his work had been unsatisfactory and I had to bring in another contractor from Vancouver to do the work over again," said Sopow. The grader operator told Sopow he had a grader parked outside and would tear up the road if he wasn't paid.

Sopow later told authorities he thought it was a bluff, but telephone Deputy Sheriff Chad Caswell, who arrived just as the grader started gouging holes in the road.

Caswell parked his car in front of the grader which plowed ahead, taking a chunk out of the car. More police arrived.

The grader then headed for Canada, pursued by police firing shots at the machine's big tires in a futile effort to halt it.

The grader lumbered past Canadian customs officers and into Tsawassen, B.C.

Contacted by a newsman, Astells verified the account given by authorities but declined to discuss the incident.

No charges were filed, since the offense is nonextraditable, authorities said. They estimated damage to the police cruiser at $600.

Court House Heating Bids Are Opened

Pickaway County Commissioners Monday opened bids for converting the Court House heating system from coal to natural gas.

The apparent low bid was submitted by Ralph W. Hart and Son Inc. The firm's bid for installing gas burners in the present system and making other necessary repairs and changes was in the amount of $18,300.

The estimate of Drake and Ford, engineering firm that prepared the bidding specifications, was for $25,981.

Bids were accepted on four alternates. One alternate was for two new Bryan boilers to be installed, one was for two 70-horsepower package boilers to be installed, one was for one 125-horsepower package boiler to be installed and one was to rework the present boilers and install gas burners.

Bids submitted for the new boilers were all over the estimates.

Other firms submitting bids were Farber Corporation, Bruner Corporation and Lieb Jackson, and Power Heating Company. Power Heating's bid of $19,685 to rework the old boilers and install gas burners was also under the architect's estimate.

The contract for rejuvenating the heating system of the Court House will be awarded next Monday.

Money Awaits Bond Purchasers

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — There's nearly one-half million dollars awaiting claimants who invested in state bonds, State Auditor Roger Cloud reported today.

This money—$479,804—awaits persons who invested but failed to cash in on their investments when due, Cloud said. Some, he said, date back to the issuance of World War II Compensation bonds.

The fund, down more than $35,000 from last year, represents matured bonds and over five different issues, including $235,000 in bonds and $244,804 in interest paid due.

Taft Is 'Delighted' With Voting Bill

WASHINGTON (AP) — Rep. Robert Taft Jr., R-Ohio, said Monday he was "delighted" President Nixon signed legislation to lower the voting age to 18.

"I believe the vast majority of young people across the country have the maturity and sense of responsibility that should go with the right to vote," he said. "Young Americans now have a real opportunity to work through the political system to bring about those changes they support."

Germ Weapons New Fertilizer

To Condition Soil Around Army Base.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Public health officials are reported ready to approve an Army plan to turn deadly war germs into a harmless "soil conditioner" to be spread around an Arkansas military base.

The soil conditioner was developed after President Nixon last November ordered all U.S. chemical and biological weapons destroyed by June 30, 1971.

Boris Osheroff, special assistant to the surgeon general, said in a telephone interview that health authorities were fully satisfied the Army's proposed methods would completely destroy both living organisms and nonliving organic toxins in the biological weapons, rendering them harmless.

The U.S. Public Health Service has been reviewing the Army's plans to destroy virtually its entire stockpile of biological weapons at the Pine Bluff Arsenal in Arkansas, where they are stored.

Small quantities of biological weapons are slated for destruction at other, unidentified, locations.

The Army maintains tight secrecy over its biological warfare weapons but they are known to include the germs of deadly, and highly contagious diseases.

"That was the whole purpose," Osheroff said, "to get person-to-person spread."

Osheroff said health officials with security clearance "received full disclosure (about) every organism, including quantities and the way they are packaged," as well as a detailed description of the Army's plans to kill these organisms and destroy other toxic components.

"There is absolutely no chance of a living organism coming through intact," he said.

He said Surgeon General Jesse L. Steinfeld and acting deputy Paul Peterson, reviewing the Army plan were concerned with keeping the remains of the biological weapons from polluting the local environment upon disposal.

He said that was the reason authorities objected to an Army proposal to dump the residue—already sterilized—through a treatment plant and into the Arkansas River.

Stock List Goes Down

NEW YORK (AP) — Stock market prices dropped steadily this morning, falling below the 714 recovery level passed last Thursday.

Trading continued to be slow. At noon the Dow Jones average of 30 industrial stocks closed off 6.23 or .86 per cent at 709.88.

Declining issues led advances more than 2 to 1.

The bankruptcy action of the Penn Central's transportation division had some effect on the market, analysts said, but milder than expected so far.

Penn Central was delayed in opening again today because of an influx of orders. Monday it was off 4 1/4 at 6 1/2.

The low volume indicates many investors have adopted a wait-and-see attitude in terms of market participation to determine how great the effect of the news will be on the market, these analysts added.

All categories were off except for aircrafts and oils which were mixed.

At noon the Associated Press 60-stock index was off 1.7 at 238.2 with industrials off 3.1 rails off 0.8, and utilities off 0.3.

Thefts in the county left an 11-year-old Ashville boy without a bicycle and a car without a steering wheel and gear shift knob.

John Little, 15, Ashville, notified the Pickaway County Sheriff's Department he had taken his brother's bike to go fishing in Turkey Run at 6:30 p.m. Monday.

He hid the bike in the weeds and when he returned at 9:45 p.m. the bicycle was gone.

The Harden Chevrolet Company, 324 W. Main St., reported the theft of a steering wheel and gear shift knob from a car parked on the used car lot.

"I DON'T HAVE TO GO TO CHURCH IN ORDER TO BE RELIGIOUS"

This is true. Families can . . . and should . . . practice their religion in their daily lives.

But public church services are not meant as a substitute for personal faith. Their purpose is to bring many families and individuals together as a religious community. They are based upon the belief that "All men are brothers" who should worship together on a regular basis.

Fair Skies Dominate Most Of U.S.

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Fair and pleasant weather dominated wide areas of the nation today.

Showers, and thunderstorms were confined during the night to portions of the Rockies and the Southeast.

Cool air seeping into the Pacific Northwest blunted a heat wave in the Far West that drove temperatures to 100 or higher Monday in half a dozen states from Washington to Arizona.

Gusty thunderstorms erupted after nightfall in sections of the Rockies. Winds near 50 miles an hour swept Salt Lake City and Ogden, Utah, and Reno, Nev.

More than an inch of rain fell in parts of the Carolinas and Virginia during thunderstorms that also produced scattered outbreaks of hail.

A small tornado dipped into an area on the outskirts of Waycross, Ga., late Monday, uprooting several trees and causing minor damage to a motel. No injuries were reported.

Overnight temperatures in the 60s and 70s were widespread. However, parts of the Southwest remained in the 90s, and there were chilly exceptions in the Northeast.

Readings before dawn ranged from 95 at Phoenix and at Needles, Calif., to 42 at Bradford, Pa.

Young People Ignorant On Homemaking?

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP) — Delegates to the 61st annual meeting of the American Home Economics Association were told Monday night that it is a mistake to think that young people know how to bring up a family without being taught how to feed them and take care of them.

The speaker was Fraeulien Leny Voellmy, president of the International Federation of Home Economics, who addressed the association's opening session.

"To be a good wife or husband, mother or father—and at the same time a career woman or man, to fulfill all the tasks at home as well as out of the home, that has to be learned," said the Swiss home economics inspector.

Miss Voellmy said the housewife no longer is satisfied only with her task at home.

"She needs discharge of her daily duties and performance in a professional work, too," she explained. "And as a professional woman, she has to fulfill her housewife's duties with as little time and forces as possible."

This situation, she continued, makes home economics training even more necessary than before—not only for girls, but also for boys.

"In my estimation, the two most important functions of our courses are to prepare girls for the first few years after leaving school and to encourage them to have inquiring minds," Miss Voellmy said.

Urge Drastic Reform Of Public Land Control

By STAN BENJAMIN
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — A special government study panel urged today that control of all federal land—one third of the nation—be concentrated in a new Department of Natural Resources.

Pickaway Grange

SALT CREEK VALLEY
Community Service was a special consideration at the June 16 meeting of Salt Creek Valley Grange.

The Master, Francis Fraunfelder, expressed appreciation for the cooperation for the recent 50th Anniversary Celebration. Initial plans were made for assisting with various endeavors at the County Fair in August.

Mrs. Fred DeLong, chairman of Women's Services, made final arrangements for Canteen Service at the June 19 visit of Blood Bank.

After a letter from the National Youth Director was read by the Secretary, Mrs. Raymond Hedges, a decision was made for a contribution. A communication from the National Grange Master was also read explaining objectives of Rededication of America Week, June 28 to July 4. A petition was signed by all present supporting faith in American Patriotism or respect for the American System of government including the office of President.

A thank you message was read from Mrs. Carl Dean expressing appreciation for 25 year membership recognition at the 50th Anniversary session.

By a letter from Pickaway County Community Action Organization, Inc., members were given opportunity to suggest service outreaches for PICCA.

Paul Dunkle, Ohio State Grange Deputy Master, gave scoring details of the District Talent Festival held June 9 and urged plans for preparation of an exhibit booth both at the County Fair.

As subordinate lecturer, Dunkle supervised a program of varied tell and test inclusions supporting dynamic values of full knowledge of grange ways and means. Highlights were reviewed from State Grange Newspapers from Connecticut, California, Oregon, Tennessee, and Minnesota.

Fred DeLong conducted a quiz on Slow Moving Vehicles. Refreshments were served by Grace Anderson and Leora Sayre.

How Weather Looks Today

OHIO WEATHER SUMMARY
COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Official Weather Bureau summary for Ohio:

Sunny skies are forecast for most of Ohio today with temperatures slightly higher than Monday. Highs today are forecast in the upper 70s to mid 80s. Fair skies appear likely tonight with lows in the 50s and low 60s.

A cool front now in the northern Plains will approach the state Wednesday with a chance of thundershowers developing ahead of it Wednesday afternoon and evening. Highs Wednesday are forecast in the mid to upper 80s.

Fair skies continued over the state Monday night and early this morning with temperatures generally in the 50s.

sources and in a single committee in each house of Congress.

The 19-member Public Land Law Review Commission said the administration of federal land is a fragmented legal mess, largely because of past congressional inaction. It urged Congress to reclaim authority which has fallen to the President by default.

The commission's 289-page report climaxing a five-year, $7 million study recommended that virtually the entire body of law governing public lands be rewritten, with Congress setting guidelines to insure that each federal area is dedicated to its "highest and best use."

All users of federal land should pay for that use, the commission said, on the basis of "fair market value."

Thirteen of the commission's members are on the House or Senate Interior committees. That department would be linked with the Agriculture Department's Forest Service to create the new department of Natural Resources under the commission's recommendation.

Rep. Wayne N. Aspinall, D-Colo., chairman of both the commission and the House Interior Committee, told newsmen in a briefing he planned to start introducing legislation early next year that would implement some of the 387 recommendations in the report.

The government, the report said, should reverse its policy of disposing of federal land and hang on to most of it; but it should make payments to the states where federal lands are located, in place of the taxes that those lands could have generated under state ownership.

The commission provided for disposal of some federal land for particular resource development purposes.

It also urged federal regulation of oil and gas production on the outer continental shelf; leasing for other mineral mining in federal offshore lands; and the offering of some oil shale lands for experimental commercial development, under terms more attractive to industry than those of the past.

It was Aspinall who introduced legislation in 1963 to set up the Public Land Law Review Commission. The committee's executive director, Milton A. Pearl, was then staff consultant to Aspinall's Interior Committee.

The commission's task was enormous—to review some 3,700 federal laws and uncounted regulations, dating as far back as 1792 and governing more than 755 million acres—one-third of the nation's entire area.

These laws bring the federal government more than $2 billion a year—more than 75 per cent of it from oil and gas leasing on the outer continental shelf beyond the 3-mile state limits.

Almost 70 per cent of all federal land is administered by the Interior Department, but 25 per cent comes under the Agriculture Department's U.S. Forest Service.

The commission's recommendation that the Interior Department-Forest Service merger be matched with a jurisdictional consolidation in Congress "into a single committee in each House"—one of the briefest points in the report—included no suggestion as to the choice of those two committees.

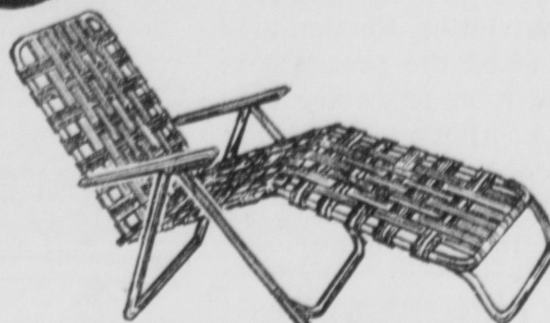

But it commented that "fragmentation of committee jurisdiction in Congress has been a major cause" of poor coordination among public land laws.

The commission charged that Congress "has largely delegated to the executive branch its ... "understandably ... took the authority" over public lands action they deemed necessary and that executive agencies to fill this vacuum."

After serious consideration of all aspects of the proposal, I came to the conclusion that the bill was simply establishing another federal manpower training program which lacked coordination with existing youth training programs and overlapped several ongoing projects. Considering these factors, plus the fact that the CCC of the 30's was not exactly a resounding success, I voted against it on final passage.

The bill would remove the Post Office Department from the President's Cabinet and hopefully out of politics by recasting it as an independent establishment in the Executive Branch of government, to be known as the "United States Postal Service." The new entity will be governed by an eleven-man Commission on Postal Costs and Revenues.

Nine of the commission members are to be appointed by the President and they select a tenth member to be designated as Postmaster General. A Deputy Postmaster General is then appointed by the ten members.

More will be said on this next week.

Budget Loopholes

Mandated government expenditures are those authorized in a prior period and carried over year after year for a length of time sometimes specified sometimes not. They have become a significant item in any budgets and a particular thorn to those who would hold down spending.

How significant mandated expenditures have become is revealed by the staff of a joint congressional committee which estimates only 46 per cent of projected fiscal 1971 appropriations will be authorized by the current Congress. More than half the total was committed sometime in the past.

One of the major problems with these continuing expenditures, or "fixed expenses," as they are sometimes mistakenly called, is that they continue on with little congressional review and sometimes even generate new outlays.

What this adds up to is Congress has lost control of a large part of its budget-making and appropriations - approving responsibilities. Particularly during a period when the pressure is on to hold down unnecessary expenditures, the continuing programs ought to be subject to the same fiscal restraints and budgetary reviews as any other part of the total outlay.

NEW YORK (AP)—Things a columnist might never know if he didn't open his mail:

Do you sometimes feel you're working more for the government than for yourself? The fact is, according to the Tax Foundation, that taxes now take from 35 to 37 per cent of the total national income.

The average American now works two hours and 43 minutes a day to pay his taxes, 59 minutes for his food, 57 minutes for his housing, and 18 minutes for his recreation. In the past five years government taxes have grown 1½ times as fast as the nation's gross national product.

Diamonds, which can now be made in the laboratory but at prohibitive cost, are reputed able to cure diseases and fend off evil. Until the 15th century in Europe they were worn only by men. They were thought also to have the power to make the wearer invisible. But the more diamonds a guy gives a girl today, the more likely he is to see more of her.

If she didn't keep her babies in her pouch, a near-sighted mother opossum would have trouble keeping track of them. They are so tiny at birth that 50 of them could be held in a human hand.

A survey found that women leave longer cigarette butts in ashtrays than men do—yes, even when the ladies buy the cigarettes themselves.

Quotable notables: "Democracy means government by discussion but it is only effective if you can stop people talking."—Former British Prime Minister Clement Attlee.

Tip to working girls: Are your laundry bills getting out of hand? Then you might follow the example of Hetty Green, the "Witch of Wall Street." This miserly and crotchety old millionaire saved money by having only the lower half of her petticoats washed.

Bad Mixture: Alcohol and gasoline don't mix well, but they are particularly dangerous when another ingredient is added—youth. A Minnesota survey found that 43 per cent of drinking drivers killed in accidents were between 16 and 24 years old, although only 24 per cent of the state's licensed drivers were in that age bracket.

Worth remembering: "A successful marriage is one in which one partner makes the living, and the other makes the living worthwhile."

Know your language: What is a hussy? Your wife would be annoyed if you called her that, but originally the word simply meant a housewife. But in the 16th century it began to be applied to "females of the lower order" and eventually to common bawds.

Dear Editor:

When the local Kiwanis Club met recently and pledged their support to the leaders of this country in their decisions on Vietnam and Cambodia, it was a case of history repeating itself.

The history of recent years is replete with incidences of people blindly playing the childish game of follow the leader.

As all of us know, the German people played that little game with Hitler and saw their once-proud nation nearly destroyed. As a result, that nation is divided right down the middle with half of it under Communist domination.

While the people of Germany were following like sheep the madman Hitler, they were even able to tolerate the stench that belched from his gas chambers as they consumed the bodies of millions of Jews.

In 1939 one of England's leaders, Neville Chamberlain, acting on a policy of appeasement, conceded Czechoslovakia to Hitler.

Later on and at the close of World War II, the leaders of our major powers handed over to Stalin large areas of the world. Consequently we have a divided Germany and a divided Korea. Such concessions put the people of the Balkans under the yoke of the Communists.

Such concessions to Stalin cannot be justified on any grounds. After the American troops had established a beachhead on the mainland of France and started their drive to the Rhine, Hitler withdrew his troops from Russia in order to stop that drive. By so doing, the Russian army which had done little else but retreat, was able to advance into Germany with little opposition.

The foregoing facts of history back up my statement that Russia deserved no concessions. But a wily Stalin received them nevertheless. And by making boasts of most of the world's leaders, he furthered the advancement of Communism to an unprecedented degree.

We and our allies won World War II but at the same time lost the peace. The wars that have followed are the result of the bungling of our leaders who were making policy just a few years ago. The threat of Communism is what it is because of that bungling.

And we continue to throw away the lives of our youth on the sacrificial altar of our own stupidity!

Try and Stop Me

By BENNETT CERF

SULLIVAN, Riley, and O'Connor were having their so-called friendly card game when Sullivan suddenly recalled, "Listen, Riley, I was passing a jewelry store yesterday and . . ." "That'll be enough of that, Sullivan," interrupted O'Connor harshly, "and if you lead with a diamond after that, Riley, I'll wreck the both of you."

A note from learned Philosopher S. M. Himmell: "Not long ago a newspaper reported the case of an 80-year-old man killed by a truck. His wife said he never had suffered a sick day in his life—but an autopsy proved otherwise. The old gentleman's lungs were scarred with healed TB lesions. His stomach showed signs of long-forgotten ulcers, his arteries were hardened, his kidneys damaged. In short, he had obviously suffered almost every disease in the book."

"BUT, when in pain, he always smiled and believed firmly he'd feel better the next day. All of which proves, most of us are only as sick as we think we are!"

A down-at-the-heels magician, doing his stuff in a fourth-rate theatre, asked for volunteers to come on stage and help him perform his most intricate trick. One lad, with obvious reluctance, was induced to come forward. "Thank you, my friend," the magician greeted him. "You've never seen me before, have you?" The lad answered, "No, Daddy."

Speaking Of Your Health

By Lester L. Coleman, M.D.

For years, a special form of pollution has been invading our brain cells and keeping our heads bobbing in disbelief. It can now be added to the pollution of our air by smoke, the pollution of our rivers and lakes by oil and detergents, the pollution of our surroundings by noise. I call it pollution by words.

Everyone who has a political axe to grind bombards all of us with rhetoric and words that carry political promises that are never achieved.

While lives are lost from overdoses of LSD, heroin and a host of other psychedelic drugs, we are told:

"We must put forces at work to save this generation." "Only new laws can keep our youngsters off the streets and keep them in schools and parks where they belong." "Social workers and psychologists must be supplied to prisons and reformatories." "When I am elected, I will . . ." I am tempted to complete that last quote by adding "When I am elected I will completely forget everything I promised to do for the dead and dying drug addicts."

My animosity to the pollution of our lives by words is high today and my tolerance for promises broken is particularly low.

I learned today that a child whose life I saved eight years ago was just found dead at the age of 14. He died of an overdose of heroin.

Tomorrow the hopeless pollution of wordy political promises will start again.

Five years ago I wrote about the dangers to life and limb caused by ambulances that speed through city streets. I recalled an accident by one of these speed-kill "angels of mercy" who, with blaring siren and flashing lights, caused a collision on the way back from a false alarm. Since then, the American Ambulance Association has set down rigid rules about violations of traffic laws by speeding ambulances that, in most instances, can do more damage than good. Any doctor who "rode ambulance" in New York City as part of his internship will substantiate this dogmatic statement.

It is almost impossible to tell the direction of a screaming siren. If you become confused and stop your automobile you invite being hit from the back. If you continue, the misleading

By JOHN CHAMBERLAIN

Ralph Nader, the hot-eyed champion of consumerism, is suddenly waking up to the fact that people in themselves, not the corporations that serve them, are menaces. He has praised the National Highway Safety Bureau for trying to do something about the drunken driver.

So it isn't necessarily the cars or the automobile manufacturers that are the prime reasons for our terrible records of traffic deaths. Last year the death toll on the highways was the highest in history — 56,400 persons killed. This carnage happened despite the fact that safety belts have become universal.

At the time Mr. Nader was writing his "Unsafe at Any Speed," which excoriated the manufacturers for their alleged negligence about building safety factors into the motor vehicle, the officials of Ford and General Motors tried to tell the public that faulty driving by careless human beings was the greater danger to human life. Nader wouldn't listen; he persisted with his crusade against the inanimate object when quite animate persons were, as often as not, the real culprits. By retelling a story about the effect in an early model, Nader killed the Corvair car, a nifty with a rear-end engine, long after it had been made safe by automotive engineers. He has flown high and wide as Mr. Hollerhan-Thou; and Detroit, which actually has no desire to see its customers killed for any reason, could do little beyond rolling with the punches.

Meanwhile the death statistics have waited to be properly analyzed. Recently we have been getting cogent stuff from the National Safety Council of Chicago. Howard Pyle, the council's president, has come out with a warning that alcohol, not defective tires or brakes, is responsible for "fully one-half of all highway crashes." This means that 28,000 people died on the roads last year because of drinking.

It is this fact that Ralph Nader has belatedly discovered. But will he redirect his animus away from Detroit and toward that final convivial drink that is "one for the road"? We are waiting for Mr. Nader to put his priorities in order to conform with certain hard facts about human nature.

While Nader continues to get the headlines, the National Safety Council's Defensive Driving Course, which has been taken by two million drivers since its inception in 1964, receives very little attention. Its aim is to make every licensed adult driver in the U. S. a graduate. Going beyond the alcohol statistics, the president of the Seattle-King County (Washington) Safety Council, Claude Browne, says that 85 per cent of all traffic accidents are attributable to errors on the part of drivers. This is another bit of information that Mr. Nader might ponder.

Then there are the careless pedestrians, 9,800 killed last year on the roads by getting in the way of automobiles. Some of them were personally blameless, if that is any consolation. However, many pedestrians,

Judge Stern Said
Choice For Court

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Judge Leonard J. Stern of the 10th District Court of Appeals probably will be proposed to the state Republican Central and Executive Committee Tuesday as a candidate for the Ohio Supreme Court.

The Associated Press learned Monday that Stern is the choice of Gov. James A. Rhodes for the seat vacated by C. William O'Neill when he was named chief justice.

The court is nearing its summer recess and Rhodes is not likely to make an appointment to fill the vacancy until the justices are ready to return to work in early fall.

The recent census taken in South Africa revealed that one of the persons living in that area may actually be 180 years old. Must be a unique experience to be able to think of the rest of the world's population as just a bunch of kids.

Incidentally, if there ever was such a thing as the "good old days" that South African should be able to tell us just when they were.

A cat managed to get itself locked into the coin box of a Warmminster, England, slot machine. Trying for the job of watch dog?

Roman emperors had asbestos woven into their burial robes. If what we've read about how some of them behaving during their reigns is true, can't say we blame 'em!

Grandpappy Jenkins says the total Census count, when revealed, won't surprise him. He's known all along there are a lot of us.

Nader Finally Wakes Up

according to National Safety Council Vice President John D. Lawlor, "just don't stop, look and listen as carefully as they should." Two-fifths of the total of 160,000 pedestrian deaths and injuries from automobiles have "resulted from jaywalking."

My quarrel with Mr. Nader is that it is hopeless to ask the government to assume the responsibility for saving people from their propensity for error. The government can't stand watch over every partygoer to keep him from taking that last drink. It can't prevent a jaywalker from trying to make a sudden dart across the road in front of a speeding car. Individuals have got to learn to take responsibility for themselves. Even the attempt to enforce federal standards on manufacturers must run up against the fact that government bureaus and commissions invariably come to be dominated by friends of the companies that are supposed to be regulated.

Nader could do more for erring humanity if he got behind such voluntary protective groups as the NSC's Defensive Driving Course and Consumers' Research. These are the really effective watchdogs, as "Nader's Raiders" will some day learn.

WASHINGTON
MEMOBy Congressman
CHALMERS P. WYLIE
15th District of Ohio

The big news of the week had to be the vote in the House which agreed to Senate amendments to the Voting Rights Act of 1965 and thereby sent to the President a bill which would lower the voting age for all elections to 18 and extended the Voting Rights Act of 1965 for five years.

As originally passed by the house, the Voting Rights Bill would have applied uniformly to all the states. The Senate amendments provide for a simple extension of the present law so that it would have application to seven southern states only, just as the original Voting Rights Act of 1965. Additionally, the Senate added the amendment which would allow the 18-year-old the right to vote.

There was heated debate on the floor on the constitutional question of the right of the Congress to lower the voting age without submitting the issue to the states in the form of a constitutional amendment. And, papers had been submitted by recognized constitutional lawyers upholding either position.

A constitutional amendment providing for submission of the question to the states for ratification would have eliminated the question of the constitutionality of direct action by Congress. Since I supported the constitutional amendment approach, I voted against adopting the Senate amendments.

It might be of interest to note that when women were granted the right to vote, it was done by constitutional amendment. The new law will apply to all elections occurring after January 1, 1971.

Under present law, a U.S. flag is presented to the closest surviving relative of a deceased U.S. serviceman. This person is most frequently the wife of the deceased. In this situation, existing law makes no provision for presenting a flag to the parents. Last July, I sponsored a bill to provide for an additional flag to be given to the parents of American servicemen who are killed in the service of their country.

This week the House passed a companion bill and sent it to the Senate where passage is almost certainly assured.

These flags will be a cherished remembrance for the wives and parents who, like their fallen loved one, have sacrificed so very much in the defense of their country.

On Monday, June 15, the House passed two bills pertaining to veterans' benefits. The first measure provides for an average increase in service-connected disability rates of compensation available to veterans who have such disabilities by approximately 10 per cent, effective July 1, 1970. Also included were specific provisions relating to former prisoners of war. Because of the conditions of their captivity, it is sometimes difficult for a former prisoner of war to establish that his disability or that an aggravation of a previous disability is related to his military service. To remedy this situation, the following diseases are presumed to be service-connected if suffered by a former prisoner of war incarcerated for six months or more who suffered from inhumane treatment: avitaminosis, beriberi, chronic dysentery, helminthiasis, malnutrition pellagra, and other nutritional deficiencies.

The second veterans' bill increased to $2500 the amount allowed for the purchase of specially equipped automobiles for certain disabled veterans.

On Monday, the House also passed legislation establishing a Youth Conservation Corps (CCC) patterned after the Civilian Conservation Corps (CCC) of depression days. The Corps will consist of both boys and girls between the ages of 16 and 18, from all social, economic, and racial backgrounds and will be administered by a Committee composed of representatives from the Interior, Agriculture, and Labor Departments. Efforts will be made to locate participants close to their homes, as they work in such projects as reseeding national forests and maintaining national parks. The bill authorizes a $3.5 million pilot program for three years, designed to employ 3,000 youths.

After serious consideration of all aspects of the proposal, I came to the conclusion that the bill was simply establishing another federal manpower training program which lacked coordination with existing youth training programs and overlapped several ongoing projects. Considering these factors, plus the fact that the CCC of the 30's was not exactly a resounding success, I voted against it on final passage.

After months of debate in the Post Office and Civil Service Committee, negotiations between the Administration and organized labor and followed by a major postal strike, the House finally passed a long awaited Postal Reform Bill.

The bill would remove the Post Office Department from the President's Cabinet and hopefully out of politics by recasting it as an independent establishment in the Executive Branch of government, to be known as the "United States Postal Service." The new entity will be governed by an eleven-man Commission on Postal Costs and Revenues.

Nine of the commission members are to be appointed by the President and they select a tenth member to be designated as Postmaster General. A Deputy Postmaster General is then appointed by the ten members.

More will be said on this next week.

Young Claims FBI Swarms Over Kent State Campus

KENT, Ohio (AP) — Summer quarter classes have opened at Kent State University with 6,967 students and U.S. Sen. Stephen M. Young, D-Ohio, claims there are up to 50 FBI operatives among the students.

The university had not held classes since May 4, when four students were shot to death in a confrontation with the Ohio National Guard.

Young said Monday in Washington he was told by "most reliable sources" that the FBI operatives are on campus with "some of them, perhaps all of them," enrolled as summer students.

FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover

denied the allegation, saying "there is no truth whatsoever in Sen. Young's assertions."

Young said in an interview he was told that the number of operatives "will be increased to 200 at the outset of the September term" and that there were 50 more FBI agents posing as students at Ohio State University in Columbus.

"That causes me to say out loud that the FBI, under its dictator, J. Edgar Hoover, is a vastly overstuffed bureaucracy if they can lead in all of those operatives . . . and that taxpayers who have to swear to pay for all this bureaucracy should know the facts," the Ohio Democrat declared.

Young said his information came from members of my own staff, as well as from students. "They've seen the cards of some of them," he added.

"My information on Ohio State is not nailed down as much as my information on Kent State, but I have nailed that down personally."

The enrollment total was down from last year's 7,435, but university officials said normal late enrollments are expected to boost the total above the 1969 summer total.

However, fall and winter enrollment is expected to show a drop from the 19,000 students who were on campus this spring.

Penn Central Railroad Sets Revamping Via Bankruptcy

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — The Penn Central Railroad, the nation's largest, has received court permission to reorganize under federal bankruptcy laws because it is unable to pay its bills. Meanwhile, it continues normal operations.

Director of the railroad, part of a giant company with assets of more than $6.5 billion, said they went into court Sunday because the line was caught in a "severe cash squeeze" and unable to borrow new funds "from any source." A last-ditch plan for a $200 million government-guaranteed loan fell through last week.

The bankruptcy petition was signed by U.S. District Judge C. William Kraft Jr. It was rushed to Kraft's suburban home by a chauffeured limousine following approval by the 12 directors of the Penn Central Transportation Co. after a six-hour emergency meeting.

Simply, it meant that the business of the line created early in 1968 with the merger of the Pennsylvania and New York Central, was in the hands of the court and that the passenger and freight trains would keep on running.

The action affected only the giant railroad with its 42,731

miles of track in 14 states and two Canadian provinces.

The present Penn Central Co. and its profitable subsidiaries—Buckeye Pipe Line Co., the Great Southwest Corp., Arvida Corp., Realty Hotels, Inc., and two tiny railroads, the Pittsburgh & Lake Erie, and the Detroit, Toledo & Ironton—were not involved, even though the same 12 directors control what ranks as the sixth largest corporation in the United States.

Kraft's order directed the Penn Central "to run, manage, operate, maintain, preserve and keep in proper condition" all railroad properties until one or more trustees are appointed on or after a hearing on July 15. The trustee appointment must be approved by the Interstate Commerce Commission.

The petition also: —Directed the railroad, unless ordered by the court, to pay neither principal nor interest "on any of its funded or floating debts" except for equipment obligations which Penn Central guaranteed or assumed.

—Ordered the railroad to start a new set of books at 12:01 a.m. June 22.

—Restrainted all persons and firms, claiming debts due them, from suing or seizing any railroad property or interfering with the operation of the Penn Central.

The bankruptcy petition was filed under Section 77 of the federal Bankruptcy Law, which gives railroads special treatment.

In an ordinary bankruptcy, the assets of the firm involved are turned into cash and its creditors share in the proceeds.

But Section 77 provides for operation of railroads under trusteeship while efforts are made to work out a solution for financial problems.

The Defense Department had planned to guarantee up to $200 million in loans to the line, but reversed itself last Friday in the face of congressional objections.

Kentucky's highest court has upheld a 1968 law requiring motorcyclists to wear helmets. The Court of Appeals said the act is intricately related to public welfare.

Lawton Gets Chance To Talk To Buckeye Boys Staters

ATHENS, Ohio (AP)—Edwin Lawton, American Independent Party candidate for governor who accused Buckeye Boys State of discriminating against him, was given equal speaking time Monday night.

Lawton complained earlier Monday, and threatened to demonstrate because he had not been invited to appear with the two major gubernatorial candidates at a special assembly on state government operations.

But after Lawton arrived here he was given a spot on the speakers platform with Democrat John J. Gilligan and Republican Roger Cloud.

The candidates were asked to discuss "Why I am Interested in Politics — Why You Should Be."

Lawton, a Columbus office worker who is seeking a statewide office for the first time, said he entered politics because "corrupt and liberal leftist politicians" have created "perilous times" in this country.

He said America is being torn apart by graft, crime and riots and that the two-party system has been destroyed by "warped, liberal ideologists" who captured the minds of professional politicians.

Cloud and Gilligan, appearing on the same platform for the first time since the primary election, urged the 1,360 high school students attending the 33rd annual American Legion sponsored event to adhere to the democratic system to bring about changes in this country.

Cloud told the youths they should become politically involved. "Too many of us criticize our institutions and leaders without offering our own services."

Cloud advocated student membership on university governing boards and promised that as governor he would establish procedures to insure that all segments of the student population are heard.

Gilligan said people should seek changes in government programs at the ballot box, not the barricades.

Young Claims FBI Swarms Over Kent State Campus

KENT, Ohio (AP) — Summer quarter classes have opened at Kent State University with 6,967 students and U.S. Sen. Stephen M. Young, D-Ohio, claims there are up to 50 FBI operatives among the students.

The university had not held classes since May 4, when four students were shot to death in a confrontation with the Ohio National Guard.

Young said Monday in Washington he was told by "most reliable sources" that the FBI operatives are on campus with "some of them, perhaps all of them," enrolled as summer students.

FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover

denied the allegation, saying "there is no truth whatsoever in Sen. Young's assertions."

Young said in an interview he was told that the number of operatives "will be increased to 200 at the outset of the September term" and that there were 50 more FBI agents posing as students at Ohio State University in Columbus.

"That causes me to say out loud that the FBI, under its dictator, J. Edgar Hoover, is a vastly overstaffed bureaucracy if they can find in all of those operatives . . . and that taxpayers who have to swear to pay for all this bureaucracy should know the facts," the Ohio Democrat declared.

Young said his information came from members of my own staff as well as from students. "They've seen the cards of some of them," he added.

"My information on Ohio State is not nailed down as much as my information on Kent State, but I have nailed that down personally."

The enrollment total was down from last year's 7,435, but university officials said normal late enrollments are expected to boost the total above the 1969 summer total.

However, fall and winter enrollment is expected to show a drop from the 19,000 students who were on campus this spring.

Penn Central Railroad Sets Revamping Via Bankruptcy

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — The Penn Central Railroad, the nation's largest, has received court permission to reorganize under federal bankruptcy laws because it is unable to pay its bills. Meanwhile, it continues normal operations.

Director of the railroad, part of a giant company with assets of more than $6.5 billion, said they went into court Sunday because the line was caught in a "severe cash squeeze" and unable to borrow new funds "from any source." A last-ditch plan for a $200 million government-guaranteed loan fell through last week.

The bankruptcy petition was signed by U.S. District Judge C. William Kraft Jr. It was rushed to Kraft's suburban home by a chauffeured limousine following approval by the 12 directors of the Penn Central Transportation Co. after a six-hour emergency meeting.

Simply, it meant that the business of the line created early in 1968 with the merger of the Pennsylvania and New York Central, was in the hands of the court and that the passenger and freight trains would keep on running.

The action affected only the giant railroad with its 42,731

miles of track in 14 states and two Canadian provinces.

The present Penn Central Co. and its profitable subsidiaries—Buckeye Pipe Line Co., the Great Southwest Corp., Arvida Corp., Realty Hotels, Inc., and two tiny railroads, the Pittsburgh & Lake Erie, and the Detroit, Toledo & Ironton—were not involved, even though the same 12 directors control what ranks as the sixth largest corporation in the United States.

Kraft's order directed the Penn Central "to run, manage, operate, maintain, preserve and keep in proper condition" all railroad properties until one or more trustees are appointed on or after a hearing on July 15. The trustee appointment must be approved by the Interstate Commerce Commission.

The petition also: —Directed the railroad, unless ordered by the court, to pay neither principal nor interest "on any of its funded or floating debts" except for equipment obligations which Penn Central guaranteed or assumed.

—Ordered the railroad to start a new set of books at 12:01 a.m. June 22.

—Restrained all persons and firms, claiming debts due them, from suing or seizing any railroad property or interfering with the operation of the Penn Central.

The bankruptcy petition was filed under Section 77 of the federal Bankruptcy Law, which gives railroads special treatment.

In an ordinary bankruptcy, the assets of the firm involved are turned into cash and its creditors share in the proceeds.

But Section 77 provides for operation of railroads under trusteeship while efforts are made to work out a solution for financial problems.

The Defense Department had planned to guarantee up to $200 million in loans to the line, but reversed itself last Friday in the face of congressional objections.

Kentucky's highest court has upheld a 1968 law requiring motorcycleists to wear helmets. The Court of Appeals said the act is intricately related to public welfare.

BEFORE AND AFTER — General view of Yungay (upper), population 20,000 and situated in the Andes Mountains in Peru, is shown (lower) after it was destroyed by a mudslide following that disastrous earthquake. Most of the town's residents perished in the catastrophe.

Lawton Gets Chance To Talk To Buckeye Boys Staters

ATHENS, Ohio (AP)—Edwin Lawton, American Independent Party candidate for governor who accused Buckeye Boys State of discriminating against him, was given equal speaking time Monday night.

Lawton complained earlier Monday, and threatened to demonstrate because he had not been invited to appear with the two major gubernatorial candidates at a special assembly on state government operations.

But after Lawton arrived here he was given a spot on the speakers platform with Democrat John J. Gilligan and Republican Roger Cloud.

The candidates were asked to discuss "Why I am Interested in Politics — Why You Should Be."

Lawton, a Columbus office worker who is seeking a statewide office for the first time, said he entered politics because "corrupt and liberal leftist politicians" have created "perilous times" in this country.

He said America is being torn apart by graft, crime and riots and that the two-party system has been destroyed by "warped, liberal ideologists" who captured the minds of professional politicians.

Cloud and Gilligan, appearing on the same platform for the first time since the primary election, urged the 1,360 high school students attending the 33rd annual American Legion sponsored event to adhere to the democratic system to bring about changes in this country.

Cloud told the youths they should become politically involved. "Too many of us criticize our institutions and leaders without offering our own services."

Cloud advocated student membership on university governing boards and promised that as governor he would establish procedures to insure that all segments of the student population are heard.

Gilligan said people should seek changes in government programs at the ballot box, not the barricades.

American Legion Auxiliary Holds Installation Dinner

Unit 134 American Legion Auxiliary held its Installation Dinner Monday evening at the L-K Restaurant. Mrs. James Price, past president of Unit 134 installed. Mrs. Charles Moss, president; Mrs. Betty Woods, first vice president; Mrs. MacDonald Schumm, second vice president; Mrs. Richard Hall, secretary; Mrs. Dallas Hinkle, treasurer; Miss Maggie Mavis, chaplain; Mrs. Herbert Stinson, sergeant at arms and Mrs. Robert Stephens, historian.

Out-going president, Mrs. Robert Stephens, was presented with a past president's pin in appreciation of her service.

Mrs. Stephens conducted the business session before the installation with Mrs. Walter Pickel, chaplain, opening the meeting with prayer. Mrs. Betty Woods, secretary-treasurer, gave her final reports of the year and read communications. The Unit voted to sponsor a non-member of the YMCA to Summer Camp for five days.

Mrs. Forrest Hoffman, Americanism chairman, gave a report of escorting the two girls from Circleville High School and one from Logan Elm High School to Buckeye Girls State. She accompanied the girls to a recent City Council meeting and a Girls State Tea at Washington C.H. She also presented a flag to Camp Miska Girl Scout Day Camp and one to the Circleville Police Department.

Mrs. Richard Hall, ways and means chairman, sent the report of the latest monthly card party. Maggie Mavis, cards and flowers chairman, reported sending one get well card. Mrs. Besse Simson, rehabilitation chairman, reported serving 29 veterans at the Chillicothe Veterans Hospital during the June visit with pie, ice cream and ice tea. Games and visiting completed the evening. Mrs. Frank Webbe sent the men cigarettes.

Mrs. Charles Moss reported on the 7th District Summer Convention held June 21 at James Dickey Post 23, Portsmouth. Mrs. Charles Oney, Unit 757 Chillicothe, was elected new president of the district. Mrs. Raymond Sloan, second vice president of the Department of Ohio, was a special guest.

Mrs. Walter Pickel, 7th District Americanism chairman, presented her report of the convention. Other delegates from Unit 134 were Mrs. Stenob Stone, Mrs. MacDonald Schumm and Mrs. Harold Hoffman. Mrs. Herbert Stinson, child welfare chairman, was awarded the revolving Mary Hedges trophy for the best year-round program. Two membership citations, state and national, were awarded the Unit for exceeding its membership goal by January 20, and a junior membership goal ribbon was also awarded, both through the efforts of Mrs. Stenob Stone, membership chairman.

Mrs. Stenob Stone presented outgoing secretary-treasurer, Betty Woods with a trophy in recognition of her outstanding and faithful service during the past year. Retiring president, Mrs. Stephens, presented her special recognition gifts to Mrs. Stenob Stone, Mrs. Bess Simson and Mrs. Woods. Yellow sweet-heart roses were presented to all retiring chairmen and officers.

The new president, Mrs. Moss, closed the meeting after prayer by chaplain, Maggie Mavis.

Council Of Garden Clubs Conducts Show And Meet

Council of Pickaway County Garden Clubs held its annual Spring Meeting and Flower Show Friday, June 12, at the United Methodist Church in Derby with the Derby Garden Club acting as hostesses.

The president, Mrs. W. E. Gibson, opened the meeting with prayer followed by the pledge to the flag of the United States of America. She then introduced the speaker of the morning, George Hamrick, whose subject was "Now Is The Time For Men And Women To Come To The Aid Of Their Country." He stressed the point that it will take men, women and students to pull together to solve our problems.

Roll call was answered by 52 members. Mrs. Charles Fleming read the Flower Show schedule for the Pickaway County Fair and all members were asked to participate.

Members voted and approved to furnish a table arrangement for the speakers table for the American Legion installation banquet for their new commander.

A slate of officers for the 1970-71 council was read by Mrs. Charles Houston. They were accepted unanimously.

Mrs. Gibson introduced Mrs. Richard Hedges, who installed the new officers: president, Mrs. Bernard Savy, (Solana Club); first vice president, Mrs. W. E. Gibson, (Deercreek Club); second vice president, Mrs. Donald Watt, (Circleville Club); third vice president, Mrs. Dennis Hutchins, (Commercial Point Club); fourth vice president, Miss Kathryn Decker, (Ashville Club); corresponding secretary, Mrs. Lawrence McKenzie, (Logan Elm); recording secretary, Mrs. Joe Sheets (Monrovia Club); and treasurer, Mrs. Richard McPherson (Derby Club).

The afternoon session was opened by Mrs. W. E. Gibson who thanked the Derby Club for its hospitality. The meeting was turned over to the program chairman, Mrs. Savy, who commented about the recent rains spoiling most flowers for show purposes, but said she was thankful for those who did participate. She presented the arranger for the afternoon, Mrs. Quentin Elder, from Warsaw, and member of a garden club from Region 8.

Mrs. Elder opened with comments and remarks on the winning arrangements. She constructed several arrangements using driftwood, ceramics and foliage from trees and unusual plants.

Mrs. Gibson reminded everyone that the fall meeting would be hosted by the Ashville Garden Club. After the drawing of the door prizes the meeting was adjourned.

Church Class Meets In Brobst Home

The June meeting of Pontious United Methodist Church, Willing Workers Class, was held recently in the home of Mrs. Robert Brobst, Route 4, with Miss Edwina Holderman as hostess.

The meeting was opened with prayer by Mrs. Walter Richards. Mrs. Marguerite Stevison led the devotions with Scripture from Second Corinthians 4:17. Miss Holderman conducted the program, "God's Workers Behind Bars" and "Life Of Devotion." Mrs. Robert Brobst presided over the business session.

During the social hour baby pictures of the members were passed around and everyone tried to guess who they were. An auction of old hats, purses and dresses was held. The articles are to be worn at the next meeting. A group picture was presented to each member.

Contest winners were Mrs. Jean Brobst, Mrs. Ethel Klingensmith, Mrs. Mary Richards, Mrs. Cecile Palm and Mrs. Florence Heffner.

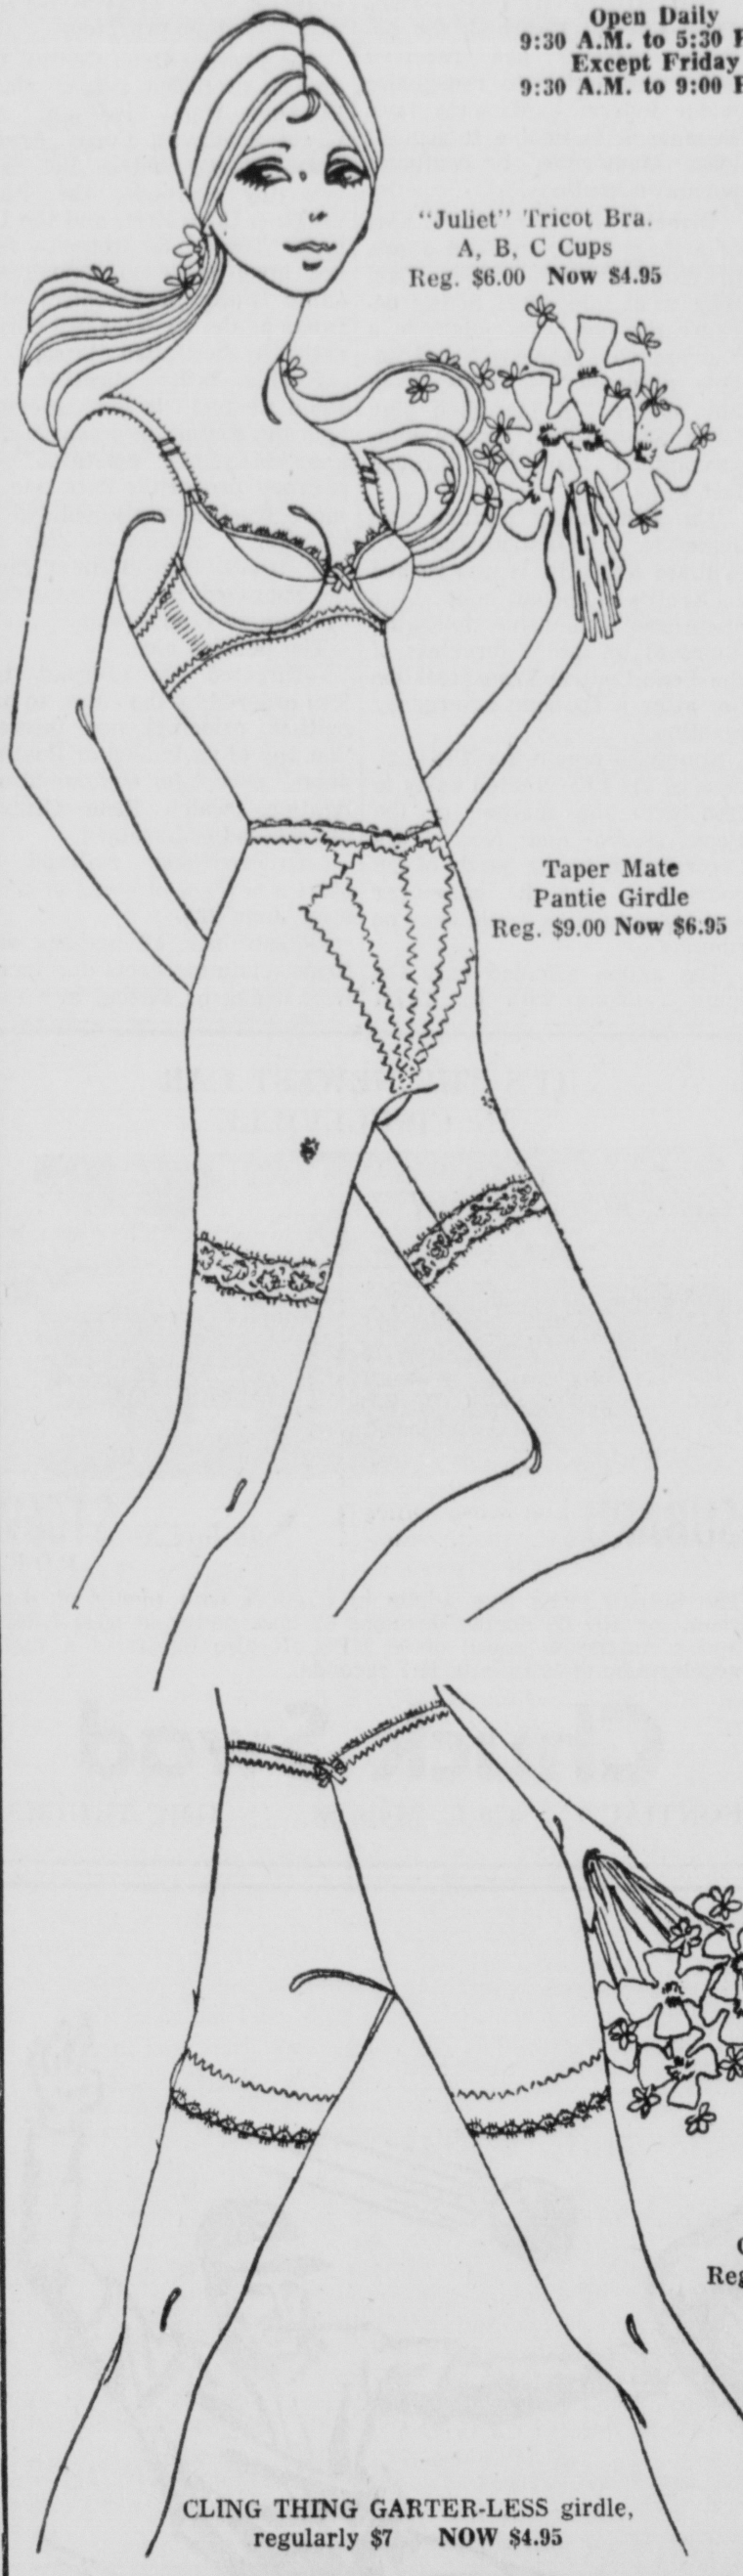

Refreshments were served by the hostess.

Mrs. Stephens conducted the business session before the installation with Mrs. Walter Pickel, chaplain, opening the meeting with prayer. Mrs. Betty Woods, secretary-treasurer, gave her final reports of the year and read communications. The Unit voted to sponsor a non-member of the YMCA to Summer Camp for five days.

Mrs. Forrest Hoffman, Americanism chairman, gave a report of escorting the two girls from Circleville High School and one from Logan Elm High School to Buckeye Girls State. She accompanied the girls to a recent City Council meeting and a Girls State Tea at Washington C.H. She also presented a flag to Camp Miska Girl Scout Day Camp and one to the Circleville Police Department.

Mrs. Richard Hall, ways and means chairman, sent the report of the latest monthly card party. Maggie Mavis, cards and flowers chairman, reported sending one get well card. Mrs. Besse Simison, rehabilitation chairman, reported serving 29 veterans at the Chillicothe Veterans Hospital during the June visit with pie, ice cream and ice tea. Games and visiting completed the evening. Mrs. Frank Webbe sent the men cigarettes.

Mrs. Charles Moss reported on the 7th District Summer Convention held June 21 at James Dickey Post 23, Portsmouth. Mrs. Charles Oney, Unit 757 Chillicothe, was elected new president of the district. Mrs. Raymond Sloan, second vice president of the Department of Ohio, was a special guest.

Mrs. Walter Pickel, 7th District Americanism chairman, presented her report of the convention. Other delegates from Unit 134 were Mrs. Stenobe Stonerock, Mrs. MacDonald Schumm and Mrs. Harold Hinson. Mrs. Herbert Stinson, child welfare chairman, was awarded the revolving Mary Hedges trophy for the best year-round program. Two membership citations, state and national, were awarded the Unit for exceeding its membership goal by January 20, and a junior membership goal ribbon was also awarded, both through the efforts of Mrs. Stenobe Stonerock, membership chairman.

Mrs. Stonerock presented outgoing secretary-treasurer, Betty Woods with a trophy in recognition of her outstanding and faithful service during the past year. Retiring president, Mrs. Stephens, presented her special recognition gifts to Mrs. Stonerock, Mrs. Bess Simison and Mrs. Woods. Yellow sweetheart roses were presented to all retiring chairmen and officers.

The new president, Mrs. Moss, closed the meeting after prayer by chaplain, Maggie Mavis.

Teacher Assn. Luncheon Held

A luncheon meeting of the Pickaway County and Adjacent Area Chapter of the Ohio Retired Teachers Assn., Inc., held a luncheon Saturday at L-K Restaurant. Attending the event were 59 members and guests.

A social hour preceded serving of a buffet luncheon replacing the program for this meeting.

The business session was presided over by the president, Dr. W. L. Sproule. Each one present received a copy of the revised constitution and by-laws.

Members accepted the suggestion of Mrs. Earl Smith that a donation in memory of a deceased member, Mrs. Louise D. Crawford, be given to a fund being established by Monday Club.

Miss Mary Walters announced that the program for the next meeting on Saturday, Sept. 19, will be presented by Charles Will.

Council Of Garden Clubs Conducts Show And Meet

Council of Pickaway County Garden Clubs held its annual Spring Meeting and Flower Show Friday, June 12, at the United Methodist Church in Derby with the Derby Garden Club acting as hostesses.

The president, Mrs. W. E. Gibson, opened the meeting with prayer followed by the pledge to the flag of the United States of America. She then introduced the speaker of the morning, George Hamrick, whose subject was "Now Is The Time For Men And Women To Come To The Aid Of Their Country." He stressed the point that it will take men, women and students to pull together to solve our problems.

Roll call was answered by 52 members. Mrs. Charles Fleming read the Flower Show schedule for the Pickaway County Fair and all members were asked to participate.

Members voted and approved to furnish a table arrangement for the speakers table for the American Legion installation banquet for their new commander.

A slate of officers for the 1970-71 council was read by Mrs. Charles Houston. They were accepted unanimously.

Mrs. Gibson introduced Mrs. Richard Hedges, who installed the new officers: president, Mrs. Bernard Savey, (Solaqua Club); first vice president, Mrs. W. E. Gibson, (Deercreek Club); second vice president, Mrs. Donald Watt, (Circleville Club); third vice president, Mrs. Dennis Huchins, (Commercial Point Club); fourth vice president, Miss Kathryn Decker, (Ashville Club); corresponding secretary, Mrs. Lawrence McKenzie, (Logan Elm); recording secretary, Mrs. Joe Sheets (Monrovia Club); and treasurer, Mrs. Richard McPherson (Derby Club).

The afternoon session was opened by Mrs. W. E. Gibson who thanked the Derby Club for its hospitality. The meeting was turned over to the program chairman, Mrs. Savey, who commented about the recent rains spoiling most flowers for show purposes, but said she was thankful for those who did participate. She presented the arranger for the afternoon, Mrs. Quentin Elder from Warsaw, and member of a garden club from Region 8.

Mrs. Elder opened with comments and remarks on the winning arrangements. She constructed several arrangements using driftwood, ceramics and foliage from trees and unusual plants.

Mrs. Gibson reminded everyone that the fall meeting would be hosted by the Ashville Garden Club. After the drawing of the door prizes the meeting was adjourned.

Church Class Meets In Brobst Home

The June meeting of Pontious United Methodist Church, Willing Workers Class, was held recently in the home of Mrs. Robert Brobst, Route 4, with Miss Edwina Holderman as hostess.

The meeting was opened with prayer by Mrs. Walter Richards. Mrs. Marguerite Stevison led the devotions with Scripture from Second Corinthians 4:17. Miss Holderman conducted the program, "God's Workers Behind Bars" and "Life Of Devotion." Mrs. Robert Brobst presided over the business session.

During the social hour baby pictures of the members were passed around and everyone tried to guess who they were. An auction of old hats, purses and dresses was held. The articles are to be worn at the next meeting. A group picture was presented to each member.

Contest winners were Mrs. Jean Brobst, Mrs. Ethel Klingensmith, Mrs. Mary Richards, Mrs. Cecile Palm and Mrs. Florence Heffner.

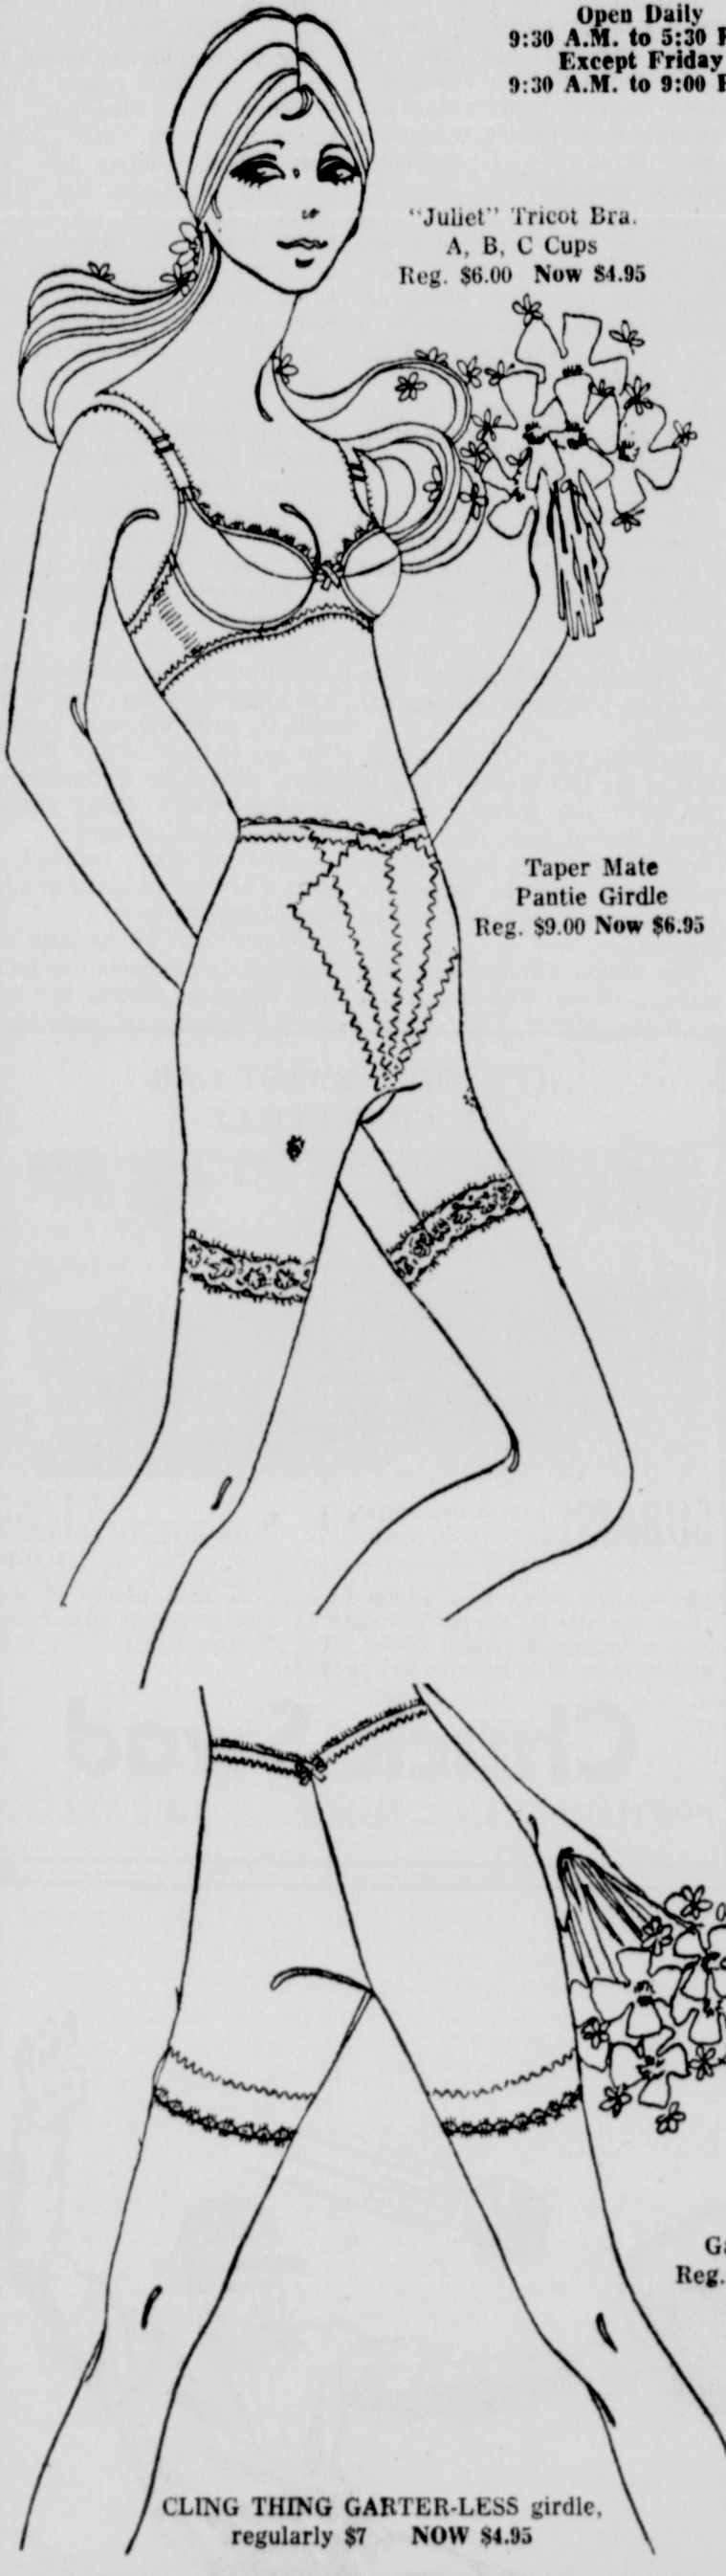

Refreshments were served by the hostess.

Dear Abby:

Comments On 'Worst Housekeeper'

DEAR ABBY: Re the mother of "the world's worst housekeeper." I am married to a doctor and we have several rather untidy children. I have help in twice a week which keeps me two steps ahead of the health department. Be we are a happy family.

This wasn't always the case. At one time I was in a constant state of turmoil worrying about my poor housekeeping. I finally consulted a psychiatrist friend and it took me a year to untangle some of the "knots" I had been tying.

I know it's popular to blame one's mother for everything, but in this case it was my mother's fault. My messy home was a form of rebellion to the way I was brought up. Mother had a fetish about housekeeping, and when I was young she would never let me do anything to help her. Then, no matter what I did, I couldn't please her, so I grew up with a feeling of great inadequacy in the housekeeping department.

Your suggestion of the "mother-daughter talk" won't help much. I think the answer is to substitute praise for criticism, which, in my case, even at this late date works like a charm. If the world's worst housekeeper does just one thing right, praise her to the skies.

Don't mention my address because my mother would know instantly who I am and I wouldn't want to hurt her. In spite of her failure in this department she more than makes up for it in others. Sign me...

UNTIDY BUT UNITED

DEAR ABBY: Here is an open letter to the mother who described her daughter as the "World's Worst Housekeeper."

You are not alone. There are many of us. And believe, me, talk will do no good.

Your daughter (as well as ours) sees what is before her eyes. After many years I have learned that most casual housekeepers have sweet and loving dispositions, and for this their husbands and children love them.

I've always said, "Show me a meticulous housekeeper, and I'll show you a nervous wreck."

ANOTHER MOTHER: RENO, NEVADA

DEAR ABBY: You advised that mother who complained because her daughter was a poor housekeeper to "talk to her daughter." What for? In the first place, if the husband isn't complaining, what business is it of the mother's? And in the second place, what good would it do?

That mother is probably one of those persnickity housekeepers who drives a man to drink with her insistence that everything be spotless.

I am not a very good housekeeper. In fact, I am a very poor one. I wash when I have to, sew a seam when I have to, and I clean house when I have to, but I've been married to the same man for 32 years and he's the happiest man I know. Of course, I don't let dirt pile up, but there is always a lot of clutter around.

That mother said her daughter came from a "clean" house. That's nice. But did she come from a happy one?

LOS ALAMITOS, CALIF.

DEAR ABBY: I came from one of those homes that was so clean you could eat off the floor. (And incidentally, my father used to spend half his time in the garage—his personal pigsty.)

Now, happily married for 19 years, the mother of seven, I am the first to admit that I am a rotten housekeeper. My mother travels across the country to visit us and spends the entire time housecleaning. It's a family joke. ("Grandma is coming to clean the garbage cans!")

But my seven kids bring their friends home by the carload to be wine and dined... kids wear clothes still warm—fresh out of the dryer.

They are all excellent students because my husband and I are interested in homework. I read stories to my children and listen to their prayers. My basketball average is pretty good for a woman of 43, and my pool game is even better. And I have time to be on committees, too.

My husband and kids think I'm the greatest. And I probably know better than YOU what your kids are doing, you spotless housekeepers!

High Court In Major Jury Ruling

WASHINGTON (AP) — Breaking away from 72 years of tradition, the Supreme Court ruled 7 to 1 Monday that juries in criminal trials may be composed of less than 12 people.

"We hold that the 12-man panel is not a necessary ingredient of trial by jury," said Justice Byron R. White for the court. Justice Thurgood Marshall was the sole dissenter.

The ruling specifically approved Florida's six-man jury. But it left open the question whether juries may consist of less than six people.

Back in 1898 the Supreme Court gave common law the strength of constitutional command by requiring 12-man jury trials.

Today's decision said "that particular feature of the jury system appears to have been an historical accident, unrelated to the great purposes which gave rise to the jury in the first place."

At present 13 states besides Florida use juries of less than 12 members for criminal trials.

Nine of the 14 states provide a jury of less than 12 where the offense carries a one-year maximum prison penalty. They are Alaska, Georgia, Iowa, Kentucky, Mississippi, New York, Oklahoma, Oregon and Virginia.

East Ohio Meet Of Methodists Set

LAKESIDE, Ohio (AP) — The first annual meeting of the new East Ohio Conference of the United Methodist Church will open here Thursday with more than 1,700 ministers and laymen attending.

Missions, evangelism and stewardship will be among matters considered at the four-day meeting by delegates representing 932 churches in the 12 districts of the conference. Bishop Francis E. Kearns of Canton, administrative and spiritual leader of Methodism's Ohio East Area, will preside.

The conference embraces the former North-East Ohio and Ohio East Conferences and portions of the former Ohio Sandusky and Ohio Southeast Conferences.

Air Pollution Proves To Be An International Problem

By BILL STOCKTON
AP Science Writer

CIUDAD JUAREZ, Chihuahua, Mexico (AP) — In the wave of public enthusiasm for cleaning up man's environment, authorities are cautioning against too high expectations for quick fixes.

Fighting pollution calls for continued commitment, money, and cooperation, they emphasize.

To clean up one American river system, for example, all cities along its banks must act against pollution from sewage and industrial wastes.

All that may present problems enough. Trying to control water or air pollution with an international boundary involved escalates the difficulties.

Residents of Ciudad Juarez, a burgeoning northern Mexico metropolis of 435,000 sprawling beside the Rio Grande, call the problem "contaminacion de atmosfera." In El Paso, a stone's throw across the muddy, often dry river the 350,000 inhabitants of Texas' fifth largest city know it as "air pollution."

Different languages, different cultures—same pollution.

Like many other urban centers divided by an international boundary, El Paso and Juarez, from a geographic standpoint, should be one city. They lie in a valley between two mountain ranges.

But international treaties dictate that the Rio Grande, meandering through the valley on its 1,000-mile journey to the sea, separate the two cities.

So when atmospheric invasions move into the valley and trap pollution near the ground, as they do often during the winter, both cities are blanketed with smog, regardless of its source.

Like it or not, El Paso and Juarez are in the air pollution game together. What one does will be useless if the other does nothing.

But El Paso and Juarez first must bridge a communications gap created by the language and culture differences.

On a face-to-face basis, each city is suspicious of the other when pollution is discussed.

On a formal government-to-government basis, communication, when there is any, is bound up in red tape. The municipal government of one city can't negotiate with that of the other. Such negotiations must be between the respective federal governments.

Pedro Beltran sits in a small, conservatively furnished office overlooking 16 de Septiembre Ave. on the edge of downtown Juarez. A courtly man of middle age, he directs urban planning in Juarez.

Beltran admits there must be more understanding on both sides.

No one has ever made a detailed scientific study of Juarez pollution sources. There's never been an interest. Or the money. Until now.

Release Money For Hospitals

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. William B. Saxbe, R-Ohio, said Monday the Veterans Administration will release $286,624 to Ohio's five VA hospitals.

The money is being released for the purchase of new equipment, the senator said.

The distribution will be: Brecksville, $33,790; Chillicothe, $38,000; Cincinnati, $102,894; Cleveland, $40,000; Dayton, $70,000.

Now Juarez officials have installed their first pollution monitor and soon will erect another.

"We are concerned about pollution," Beltran says. "And we must work with the other side because it is of concern to both cities. We have many things in mind to solve the pollution problem, but they take time and money."

Money probably always will be a problem for Juarez, Mexico's fourth largest city. Founded by Spanish settlers in the 17th century and named for a Mexican revolutionary hero, Juarez is teeming with all the problems of urban Latin America. Poverty abounds, its victims living in mud huts on unpaved streets devoid of sewers and indoor plumbing.

Despite dramatic recent progress, doctors still fight tuberculosis, diarrhea and other diseases no longer a problem in the United States. Air pollution, as a health problem, is not high on the list of priorities.

El Pasoans know this, and it bothers them.

Like many other southwestern cities where once clean air is now dirty, El Paso has awakened to the threat of air pollution.

Founded only 100 years ago, El Paso is a city of towering skyscrapers that look out on miles of freeways and housing developments. Two smelters, two refineries, a cement plant, a large Army base and dozens of small industries have made the city prosperous.

Citizens are clamoring for action against air pollution, and politicians are heeding the call.

At the end of a long hall on the second floor of the El Paso city-county building, Mayor Peter de Wetters ponders air pollution problems from his brightly decorated, windowless office. Elected just a year ago, he gets much of the credit for starting the antipollution ball rolling.

El Paso is making rapid progress, he points out, and the air pollution battle soon might be won on the north banks of the Rio Grande.

But what about Juarez?

"I'm not overly optimistic in the long run that we can get the air really cleaned up just because of Juarez," de Wetters admits.

Like many, he worries about the seeming lack of action by the Mexicans.

"We're all in this together," de Wetters says. "We're going to have to look at many problems together, including air pollution."

When all the valley pollution sources are pinpointed, who will coordinate efforts on both sides of the border to stop air pollution?

Nestor Valencia thinks he has the answer.

A native of Mexico who now lives in El Paso, Valencia is an urban planning expert respected on both sides of the border.

He is in charge of organizing a binational commission that will seek solutions to urban problems on both sides of the border, including air and water pollution.

Supported by a $60,000 grant from the U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development and $30,000 from the Mexican government, the planning commission awaits official recognition in Washington and Mexico City.

"The binational commission is the culmination of what we have sought for years," Valencia believes.

"The most effective means of coordinating efforts to eliminate air pollution for the benefit of both communities is to do it through an officially sanctioned channel of communications."

"The biggest communication problem is that we are dealing with two distinct peoples independent of one another, with dignity and prestige, who have the right to protect their heritage. So we must work on a completely equal basis."

"There must be none of this superior American business when it comes to helping Juarez solve its pollution problems."

The commission members will be appointed by the El Paso and Juarez mayors. The commission, in turn, will appoint technical committees to deal with specific urban problems, such as air and water pollution.

"When it comes to pollution, it will be El Paso pollution experts and Juarez pollution experts talking on a man-to-man, equal basis to find solutions," Valencia says.

Carlos Philipovsky, a sanitary engineer with the Pan American Sanitary Bureau, points out that a final goal on a broader scale must be an air pollution treaty.

"Regulations and standards have to be uniform on both sides of the border. If the U.S. enforces regulations and Mexico doesn't, you could easily have industries moving across the border to continue their pollution."

Philipovsky warns, too, that care must be taken so financial problems don't wreck plans to control border pollution.

"Mexico is cautious about entering into some type of pollution commission under a treaty because she just doesn't have the funds. And Mexico is too proud to accept U.S. charity if they can't finance their share themselves."

Different languages, different cultures—same pollution.

Like many other urban centers divided by an international boundary, El Paso and Juarez, from a geographic standpoint, should be one city. They lie in a valley between two mountain ranges.

But international treaties dictate that the Rio Grande, meandering through the valley on its 1,000-mile journey to the sea, separate the two cities.

So when atmospheric inversions move into the valley and trap pollution near the ground, as they do often during the winter, both cities are blanketed with smog, regardless of its source.

Like it or not, El Paso and Juarez are in the air pollution game together. What one does will be useless if the other does nothing.

But El Paso and Juarez first must bridge a communications gap created by the language and culture differences.

On a face-to-face basis, each city is suspicious of the other when pollution is discussed.

On a formal government-to-government basis, communication, when there is any, is bound up in red tape. The municipal government of one city can't negotiate with that of the other. Such negotiations must be between the respective federal governments.

Pedro Beltran sits in a small, conservatively furnished office overlooking 16 de Septiembre Ave. on the edge of downtown Juarez. A courtly man of middle age, he directs urban planning in Juarez.

Beltran admits there must be more understanding on both sides.

No one has ever made a detailed scientific study of Juarez pollution sources. There's never been an interest. Or the money. Until now.

Release Money For Hospitals

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. William B. Saxbe, R-Ohio, said Monday the Veterans Administration will release $286,624 to Ohio's five VA hospitals.

The money is being released for the purchase of new equipment, the senator said.

The distribution will be: Brecksville, $33,790; Chillicothe, $38,000; Cincinnati, $102,834; Cleveland, $40,000; Dayton, $70,000.

USE THE CLASSIFIEDS

Now Juarez officials have installed their first pollution monitor and soon will erect another. "We are concerned about pollution," Beltran says. "And we must work with the other side because it is of concern to both cities. We have many things in mind to solve the pollution problem, but they take time and money."

Money probably always will be a problem for Juarez, Mexico's fourth largest city. Founded by Spanish settlers in the 17th century and named for a Mexican revolutionary hero, Juarez is teeming with all the problems of urban Latin America. Poverty abounds, its victims living in mud huts on unpaved streets devoid of sewers and indoor plumbing.

Despite dramatic recent progress, doctors still fight tuberculosis, diarrhea and other diseases no longer a problem in the United States. Air pollution, as a health problem, is not high on the list of priorities.

El Pasoans know this, and it bothers them.

Like many other southwestern cities where once clean air is now dirty, El Paso has awakened to the threat of air pollution.

Founded only 100 years ago, El Paso is a city of towering skyscrapers that look out on miles of freeways and housing developments. Two smelters, two refineries, a cement plant, a large Army base and dozens of small industries have made the city prosperous.

Citizens are clamoring for action against air pollution, and politicians are heeding the call.

At the end of a long hall on the second floor of the El Paso city-county building, Mayor Peter de Wetters ponders air pollution problems from his brightly decorated, windowless office. Elected just a year ago, he gets much of the credit for starting the antipollution ball rolling.

El Paso is making rapid progress, he points out, and the air pollution battle soon might be won on the north banks of the Rio Grande.

But what about Juarez? "I'm not overly optimistic in the long run that we can get the air really cleaned up just because of Juarez," de Wetters admits.

Like many, he worries about the seeming lack of action by the Mexicans.

"We're all in this together," de Wetters says. "We're going to have to look at many problems together, including air pollution."

When all the valley pollution sources are pinpointed, who will coordinate efforts on both sides of the border to stop air pollution?

Nestor Valencia thinks he has the answer.

A native of Mexico who now lives in El Paso, Valencia is an urban planning expert respected on both sides of the border.

He is in charge of organizing a binational commission that will seek solutions to urban problems on both sides of the border, including air and water pollution.

Supported by a $60,000 grant from the U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development and $30,000 from the Mexican government, the planning commission awaits official recognition in Washington and Mexico City.

"The binational commission is the culmination of what we have sought for years," Valencia believes.

"The most effective means of coordinating efforts to eliminate air pollution for the benefit of both communities is to do it through an officially sanctioned channel of communications."

"The biggest communication problem is that we are dealing with two distinct peoples independent of one another, with dignity and prestige, who have the right to protect their heritage. So we must work on a completely equal basis."

"There must be none of this superior American business when it comes to helping Juarez solve its pollution problems."

The commission members will be appointed by the El Paso and Juarez mayors. The commission, in turn, will appoint technical committees to deal with specific urban problems, such as air and water pollution.

"When it comes to pollution, it will be El Paso pollution experts and Juarez pollution experts talking on a man-to-man, equal basis to find solutions," Valencia says.

Carlos Philipovsky, a sanitary engineer with the Pan American Sanitary Bureau, points out that a final goal on a broader scale must be an air pollution treaty.

"Regulations and standards have to be uniform on both sides of the border. If the U.S. enforces regulations and Mexico doesn't, you could easily have industries moving across the border to continue their pollution."

Philipovsky warns, too, that care must be taken so financial problems don't wreck plans to control border pollution.

"Mexico is cautious about entering into some type of pollution commission under a treaty because she just doesn't have the funds. And Mexico is too proud to accept U.S. charity if they can't finance their share themselves."

High Court In Major Jury Ruling

WASHINGTON (AP) — Breaking away from 72 years of tradition, the Supreme Court ruled 7 to 1 Monday that juries in criminal trials may be composed of less than 12 people.

"We hold that the 12-man panel is not a necessary ingredient of trial by jury," said Justice Byron R. White for the court. Justice Thurgood Marshall was the sole dissenter.

The ruling specifically approved Florida's six-man jury. But it left open the question whether juries may consist of less than six people.

Back in 1898 the Supreme Court gave common law the strength of constitutional command by requiring 12-man jury trials.

Today's decision said "that particular feature of the jury system appears to have been an historical accident, unrelated to the great purposes which gave rise to the jury in the first place."

At present 13 states besides Florida use juries of less than 12 members for criminal trials.

Nine of the 14 states provide a jury of less than 12 where the offense carries a one-year maximum prison penalty. They are Alaska, Georgia, Iowa, Kentucky, Mississippi, New York, Oklahoma, Oregon and Virginia.

East Ohio Meet Of Methodists Set

LAKESIDE, Ohio (AP) — The first annual meeting of the new East Ohio Conference of the United Methodist Church will open here Thursday with more than 1,700 ministers and laymen attending.

Missions, evangelism and stewardship will be among matters considered at the four-day meeting by delegates representing 932 churches in the 12 districts of the conference. Bishop Francis E. Kearns of Canton, administrative and spiritual leader of Methodism's Ohio East Area, will preside.

The conference embraces the former North-East Ohio and Ohio East Conferences and portions of the former Ohio Sandusky and Ohio Southeast Conferences.

NEW YORK (AP) — Louis Nye, who has been around television since Milton Berle was at TV, is having the busiest summer of his career.

He will be host of "Happy Days," a mixture of comedy and music wrapped in nostalgia, the summer replacement of "The Jim Nabors Show" starting Thursday on CBS.

During the same period, Nye will star in a revival of the 77-year-old farce, "Charley's Aunt" on Broadway.

Nye and his fellow performers already have taped 10 "Happy Days," and the Broadway show will be around for at least three weeks.

"But just suppose," said Nye, "that 'Charley's Aunt' turns into a hit, and suppose 'Happy Days' is one, too—gosh, what a dilemma."

In recent seasons some summer replacements—Johnny Cash, Glen Campbell and "Hee Haw"—have done so well they were added to the winter schedules of the networks.

Nye's television image as a droll fellow began when he was a member of Steve Allen's troupe of madmen—the others were Don Knotts and Tom Poston—on a bygone variety hour. After his arch characterization of Gordon Hathaway and other strange creatures, he was indelibly classified as comic.

"But I still think of myself as an actor," Nye said. "In the radio days I was busy playing rotten Nazis, rich uncles and emotional juveniles—the whole span—and the only time I tried to be funny was at parties."

Now Louis works in 11 areas of show business, from Las Vegas clubs to London TV studios.

"I always remember something Jack Benny said—'The best thing to do is to always return to live entertainment with real audiences. It helps you in television if you have been able to earn your laughs the hard way—not by a laugh machine'."

"Happy Days" will specialize in the mood and music of the 1930s and 1940s, bringing back some of the big stars of the era—Helen O'Connell and Harry James, to name just two—and basing the comedy on the foibles of the period.

CBS's new vice president in charge of entertainment programming is Fred Silverman, 32. Since he joined CBS in 1963, he has served as a vice president in charge of daytime programs, then program planning and development on the East Coast.

Silverman's promotion was announced Monday by CBS-TV President Robert D. Wood to fill a vacancy created by the resignation of Michael H. Dann who will take a post with the Children's Television Workshop, producer of "Sesame Street."

State Funeral For Sukarno Follows His Death Sunday

JAKARTA (AP) — The body of Sukarno, Indonesia's founder and first president who spent the final years of his life in isolated house arrest, was flown Monday to his birthplace in EAST Java for a state funeral.

An estimated 100,000 Indonesians, many of them weeping after an all-night vigil, lined the 12½ miles from Sukarno's mansion on the outskirts of Jakarta to Halim Air Force Base.

Another 20,000 persons swarmed around the base for a last glimpse of the wooden casket containing the remains of the man they knew as Bung Karno, Brother Karno the man whose spell-binding oratory cemented their sprawling archipelago into a nation and led the fight that brought them independence from the Dutch.

A police band played the national anthem in dirge time as the onlookers climbed into trees, clambered over roofs, jammed upper story windows and pressed close to the plane that was to carry Sukarno's body to the final rites in Blitar.

Sukarno died Sunday morning at the age of 69 after years of kidney trouble and other ailments had left him a crippled, voiceless shell of the forceful, magnetic leader who for more than a decade ruled one of the world's largest nations as a virtual dictator.

President Suharto, who ousted Sukarno in 1966 after an abortive Communist coup which had at least the tacit approval of Sukarno, reminded members of his cabinet and of the military that as Indonesia's first president, Sukarno was entitled to the state burial. However, the government barred him from the national heroes' cemetery in Jakarta.

Suharto's decision to hold a state funeral, like his refusal to charge Sukarno with involvement in the attempted coup, was based on political expediency. The first president was revered by the Indonesian masses for the part he played in wresting the nation from the Dutch.

During World War II, Sukarno collaborated with the Japanese as a means of helping throw out the Dutch, but at the same time he kept in close contact with the anti-Japanese underground. When the war was over and the Dutch reassumed control, Sukarno led a bloody four year rebellion. Finally, in 1949, the Dutch left Indonesia more than 350 years after they had first colonized it.

Ohio Youths Said Lost

GATLINBURG, Tenn. (AP)—Two 16-year-old Columbus, Ohio, boys were reported missing today in the Chimneys area of the Great Smoky Mountains National Park.

Ed Widmer, Assistant Chief Ranger, identified the missing boys as Edward Wells and Randy Moe.

Widmer said Wells' mother, Mrs. Barbara Wells of Columbus, reported her son and young Moe missing last Sunday afternoon.

"They were last seen in the Chimneys parking area," Widmer said. "There are several trails in the area and they could have hiked out on any one of them. We still anticipate they will show up soon."

Park officials said Moe was a guest of the Wells on a vacation trip to the Smokies.

Sukarno died in Jakarta's central army hospital with five wives and eight children around him.

Thousands of his people filed past his body as it lay in state Sunday night at his mansion.

Oil Tariff Is Attacked By Hansen

By DEAN SCHOTT
Associated Press Writer

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—An oil tariff would make a nursing home case of the oil industry, Sen. Clifford P. Hansen, R-Wyoming, charged today.

Hansen made the charge in a speech prepared for the Interstate Oil Compact Commission meeting here this week.

The net result of a tariff plan would be a loss to the nation "in military effectiveness, economic stability and political influence," Hansen said.

Hansen was the second conference speaker to attack recommendations of the President's Task Force on Oil Import Controls. Richard G. Byrd, general counsel for the commission, said Monday the task force was in error for recommending oil import controls.

President Nixon did not implement the task force plan.

"The tariff plan," Hansen said, "would have made an extended-care nursing home case of most of the industry, with the few survivors regulated and controlled by the import spigot."

"Such a plan, designed to reduce the price of U.S. crude oil, would endanger the national security by threatening the health of the domestic petroleum industry, putting the U.S. at the mercy of foreign countries," Hansen said. "It would cause a further deterioration in our balance of payments position and shift the global balance of power away from us."

Orioles Overtake Red Sox, 9-8

By HAL BOCK
Associated Press Sports Writer
The television reception was fine, thank you, but the Baltimore Orioles weren't exactly enjoying the program plot. So nobody squawked when their monitor show of Monday night's game against Boston was shut off in the second inning. They should have left the monitor on. The show got interesting later. The Orioles, perhaps too busy watching the TV, spotted Boston six runs in the first inning and then rallied twice—after the tube was turned off and they could concentrate on the game—to overtake the Red Sox 9-8 in a nationally televised game Monday night.

Elsewhere in the abbreviated American League schedule, Oakland nipped Kansas City 2-1 and Minnesota edged Milwaukee 4-3.

The Orioles' TV set was sitting on the third step of their dugout, giving the Baltimore players instant replays, slow motion and stop action of Boston's six-run first inning which included a towering home run by Carl Yastrzemski and four unearned runs.

A Red Sox official complained about the set in the second inning and it was shut off. Too bad. The Baltimore bench would have enjoyed the five-run seventh inning with homers by Curt Motton and Chico Salmon moving the Orioles into a 6-6 tie.

Boston battled back, taking a modest two-run budge on Tony Conigliaro's seventh inning homer and an eighth inning run built around singles by Mike Andrews and Billy Conigliaro and an infield out.

But in the ninth Boog Powell doubled with one out and scored on Merv Rettenmund's single. Paul Blair doubled and Brooks Robinson walked, loading the bases for Frank Robinson, who doubled home the deciding runs.

It was the fifth straight victory for the Orioles, who now lead the American League East by 3½ games. Minnesota, front-runner in the West, opened its lead to 4½ games by knocking off Milwaukee.

Harmon Killebrew's 15th home run—a three-run shot that broke a 1-1 tie in the fifth—was the big blow for the Twins. Jim Kaat throttled the Brewers on three hits until the ninth when Tommy Harper's two-run homer pulled Milwaukee within one run.

But Ron Ferrañoski came out of the bullpen to retire the last three batters and save the victory.

Rod Carew, Minnesota's second baseman and the American League's leading hitter, was forced to leave the game in the fourth inning because of a leg injury after he was bowled over on a double play by Milwaukee's Mike Hegan. The injury was not believed to be serious.

Frank Fernandez ripped a pinch hit homer leading off the bottom of the ninth inning to give Oakland its victory over Kansas City. The homer was the ninth this season for Fernandez, who was batting for winner Bobby Locker, 1-1.

The A's other run came on a fifth inning homer by Sal Pardo, his 14th of the season and third in the last two days.

Kansas City tied the score against starter Diego Segui with an unearned run in the seventh on Paul Schaal's double and an error by John Donaldson.

Buffalo Bills Are Stymied On Stadium
BUFFALO N.Y. (AP) — Negotiations between Erie County and Dome Stadium Inc. over the leasing of a proposed domed stadium broke off Monday after an hour of discussion. The $55 million facility, planned for construction in suburban Lancaster, would house the Buffalo Bills of the National Football League.

"The county has now completely closed the doors to further talks," a lawyer for the company said at the end of the meeting.

"The county is not walking away from anything. If there are any modifications in the next day or two you contact me," County Executive B. John Tutuska told the firm's negotiators.

The firm and the county are about $10 million apart on stadium rent and also differ on the facilities the stadium is to have. Dome Stadium, has demanded that the county provide a $2 million scoreboard and an additional 15,000 paved parking spaces.

The company offered to raise its rent payments $10 million if the county agreed to a 45-year lease instead of a 40-year pact.

Tutuska said the offer was meaningless because the county had planned on renting the stadium for more than $2 million a year during the last years of the 40-year contract.

Coca-Cola, Elks Win In LL Majors
Coca-Cola took Bingman's, 15-8. The Elks were victors over the American Legion, 6-3, and the Herald Hawks and Purina battled to a tie in Little League major action Monday night.

Biff Bumgarner was the winning factor in the Coke-Bingman battle. He went three for four from the batter's box hitting a homer and a double. He was also the winning pitcher fanning ten batters, walking seven and allowing five hits.

Bill Mogan and Brent Mancini were the losing pair on the druggists mound. They suffered six hits, nine walks and tossed five strikeouts.

Gary Combs hit a three-baser for the winning squad while Brian Augustine and Randy Swoyer hit doubles for the Bingman team.

In the Elks win, Dan Marshall was the winning hurler going all the way on the hill allowing 22 hits. Gary Wolford and Herb Sturgell were the Legion tossers. They allowed 19 hits.

Marshall and Ty Burns hit doubles for the winners.

John Hoffman Loft Wins Pigeon Race
The Circleville Pigeon Club held its ninth race of the 1970 Old Bird Series Sunday from Brinkley, Ark.

There were 26 birds from six lofts competing in the 600 mile event.

John Hoffman won first place with 943.9941 YPM. Paul Haddox took second with 873.4934 YPM. Stan Crosby's loft got third and fourth with speeds of 853.4760 YPM and 816.6871 YPM. Hoffman's bird won loft and derby pool's.

Willie Mays Powers Giants Past Cincinnati Reds, 13-6

CINCINNATI (AP) — At 39 years of age, Willie Mays is still amazing.

The "say-hey" kid from Westfield, Ala. still feeling as energetic as when he broke into the big leagues, hit two home runs, knocked in two runs and scored three runs Monday as the San Francisco Giants walloped the Cincinnati Reds 13-6, in the opener of a three game series at Crosley Field.

The home runs, his 13th and 17th, boosted his career total to 617, 97 shy of Babe Ruth's all time mark.

"I can't help thinking about the fact, I need 14 more hits for 3,000," said Mays. "But I don't think I'm going to be able to come close to Ruth's record."

"I plan to play as long as I can. Sure, I'm tired, but I have to play because we've been losing. I don't like to look back, because the time to look back is when you quit."

Although this is his 19th year with the Giants, Mays is still as enthusiastic as when he started.

"I get a thrill out of putting on a uniform for every game. I'm swinging real well this year, but I feel I still need a rest. You have to realize I'm 39."

Despite his age, Mays still swings a powerful bat and opposing pitchers are probably wondering if he'll ever stop hitting home runs. His home runs Monday night was the 62nd time in his career he has hit two or more home runs in a game.

His manager, Charlie Fox, is one of his most ardent admirers. "No wonder they call him amazing," said a happy Fox. "Don't say 'Old Willie' because he's got the build of a youngster and he's all muscle."

Rich Robertson, who won his fifth game of the year against six losses despite giving up six runs, was also praised by Fox. "This is the way I know he can pitch," Fox explained. He's big and strong and doesn't realize his own potential. His control was a little bit off at the start. I was not thinking of taking him out after the first inning because that triple by Concepcion was the only real good hit off him.

Willie Mays, with a little help from his friends, is still amazing them, even at 39.

DuPont Gains Fifth Win In LL

Pickaway-DuPont downed Stoutsville, 8-2, in a Tri County Little League minor game Monday.

Tony Crist was on the mound for the DuPont boys giving up six hits, walking four and fanning 11.

Cave and Strehl shared pitching duties for the Stoutsville nine. They allowed five hits, walked eight and whiffed five.

Rhymer had two singles and Kern a double to pace the Stoutsville squad.

David Palmer rapped a double and Jeff Collins, Tony Crist, Chris Fouch and Rocky Huggins added singles to lead the DuPont attack.

Pickaway is now 5-0 in the league and will play Salt Creek Thursday at the Logan Elm diamond.

VFW Tops Burger Chef For 2nd Win

VFW tagged Burger Chef with their second loss of the season Monday night, 8-2, in the only Pony League action.

Jeff Hawks was the winning hurler allowing only two hits, and two bases on balls while fanning eight. Rick Woltz suffered the loss on the hill allowing seven hits and eight bases on balls, fanning six.

Mike Dulan banged a three-baser for the winners and Hawks had a double. Hershal Rose hit a double for the Burger Chef.

Allen Edges Past McCovey In Votes For 1st Base Spot

NEW YORK (AP) — With most of the starters all but determined, Richie Allen edged ahead of Willie McCovey at first base in the tightest race in the National League All-Star balloting.

Allen of St. Louis, hitting .285 with 57 runs batted in and 19 home runs, pulled ahead with 135,429 votes from the fans in the balloting released Monday by Commissioner Bowie Kuhn. McCovey of San Francisco, .245 with 54 RBI and 19 homers, attracted 131,616 votes in this last week of balloting.

The balloting, done in major and minor ballparks throughout the country, ends Sunday for the July 14 All-Star game against the American League in Cincinnati. The latest American League figures will be announced Thursday.

The only other close race is in the outfield, where Rico Carty of Atlanta, the league's leading hitter, pulled ahead of Willie Mays of San Francisco into second place although Carty was left off the original list and all his votes were write-ins.

Hank Aaron of Atlanta still leads everyone, with 390,357 as the top outfielder; Carty has 177,746 and Mays 173,012. Pete Rose of Cincinnati is a close fourth at 165,668.

The other leaders appear to be shooin' with Glenn Beckert of Chicago holding a 29,000 vote lead over Felix Millan of Atlanta at second base; Tony Perez of Cincinnati at third; Don Kessinger of Chicago at shortstop and Johnny Bench of Cincinnati the catcher.

The reserves and pitchers will be picked by the opposing managers, Gil Hodges of the New York Mets in the National and Earl Weaver of Baltimore in the American.

2nd Place Worth More

NEW YORK (AP) — The second-place finishers in major league baseball's four divisions last season received an extra reward Monday—more money.

The Chicago Cubs, Detroit Tigers, Oakland A's and San Francisco Giants were granted additional shares by David L. Cole, who was selected to arbitrate the matter by the Major League Players Association and the owners.

The decision increased the shares for each club by $20,560, almost doubling their shares from last year's World Series. Now ranging from $1,126.89 per player for the Cubs to $1,253.82 for the Tigers. The difference varied on the number of players involved on each club.

The players association filed a grievance last November, charging the clubs unilaterally changed the player pool rule early in the season, thus reducing the benefits in violation of baseball's basic agreement with the players. A similar request for increases in third place shares was rejected by Cole.

Greg Heiskell Wins Local Pro-Youth Golf Tourney

Greg Heiskell shot a 45-40-85 to win the local Pro-Youth Golf Classic qualifier held Monday at the Pickaway Country Club.

He edged Greg Williams for top honors. Williams was second shooting 44-43-87.

Both Heiskell and Williams will represent Pickaway County at the State Pro-Youth Classic championship at the Westfield Country Club, Leroy, Ohio, on July 17.

First alternate will be Jeff Spires, 402 E. Main St. and second alternate will be Ray Williams, 118 Town St.

Mac's, K Of C, Block's Win In Mosquito

In Mosquito league action Monday evening Mac's blasted Hill's, 36-0. Block's edged Haps, 20-15, and K of C stuck Barnhill's, 24-2.

Chris Mays was the whole story in the Mac's shutout over Hill Implement. Mays tagged five for five at the batter's box with a grand slam homer, a triple, a double and two singles. He was also the winning hurler allowing only two hits, seven walks and striking out 12.

Rick Fox banged a triple for the winners while John Harr, Schwalbaugh and Herron hit doubles.

Doug Young and Jim Clark connected with homers for the cabinetmakers but to no avail as Block's took them, 20-15. Bob Chalfin, Pete Harrison, Tim Pontius, Mike Contino, and Mike Harrison hit triples for the winners while Troy Brady hit two two-sackers. Young and Clark and Jeff Strawser hit doubles for the Hap's "9".

Brad Allen was the winning hurler. He fanned 13, walked 14 and allowed 15 hits. Brady and Young took the loss allowing 20 hits, 14 walks and fanning seven.

Beman Leasure was the hero of the K of C-Barnhill's fray. He nailed two home runs, one of the grand slam nature, hit a triple and a single to lead the Knights. Shawn Blue backed him up notching five for five at the plate.

Blue, Jerry Morgan, and Scott Saunders hit doubles for the winning effort.

Mogan took the win on the hill. He fanned 14, walked two, and allowed only one hit. Dave Sealock and Don Hill took the pitching loss. Together they allowed 16 hits, walked 16, and fanned 14.

Buis Is Winner At River Downs

CINCINNATI (AP) — Buis, fourth at the top of the stretch, came up on the outside Monday to take the featured eighth race at River Downs by a half length.

The winner had come from last and covered the six furlong event in 1:12, paying $35.20, $12.80 and $4.00.

Irish Sword placed at $5.80 and $2.80 and Purple Pigeon showed at $2.40.

Swingin' Marike paid $14.40 in the first and combined with Robert Kope in the second for a daily double of $46.40.

Attendance was 3,452 and the mutual handle was $289,983.

Tidewater Defeats Jets

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Tidewater nudged idle Rochester out of second place in International League baseball standings by handing fifth-place Columbus another loss, 5-3, on the Jets home ground Monday.

Toledo handed the IL cellar team, Winnipeg its third straight loss 8-3 in Montreal. Louisville beat Richmond 5-3 but remained only one step from the cellar and left the Braves in fourth place.

Ken Singleton, the league's leading home run hitter, rapped a two-run homer in the eighth inning to help Tidewater to its first win in five starts.

League - leading Syracuse kept its practice Monday, beating its parent club, the New York Yankees, 3-1.

Buffalo Bills Are Stymied On Stadium

BUFFALO N.Y. (AP) — Negotiations between Erie County and Dome Stadium Inc. over the leasing of a proposed dome stadium broke off Monday after an hour of discussion.

The $55 million facility, planned for construction in suburban Lancaster, would house the Buffalo Bills of the National Football League.

"The county has now completely closed the doors to further talks," a lawyer for the company said at the end of the meeting.

"The county is not walking away from anything. If there are any modifications in the next day or two, you contact me," County Executive B. John Tutuska told the firm's negotiators.

The firm and the county are about $10 million apart on stadium rent and also differ on the facilities the stadium is to have. Dome Stadium, has demanded that the county provide a $2 million scoreboard and an additional 15,000 paved parking spaces.

The company offered to raise its rent payments $10 million if the county agreed to a 45-year lease instead of a 40-year pact.

Tutuska said the offer was meaningless because the county had planned on renting the stadium for more than $2 million a year during the last years of the 40-year contract.

Coca-Cola, Elks Win In LL Majors

Coca-Cola took Bingman's, 15-8, the Elks were victors over the American Legion, 6-3, and the Herald Hawks and Purina battled to a tie in Little League major action Monday night.

Biff Bumgarner was the winning factor in the Coke-Bingman battle. He went three for four from the batter's box hitting a homer and a double. He was also the winning pitcher fanning ten batters, walking seven and allowing five hits.

Bill Mogan and Brent Mancini were the losing pair on the druggists mound. They suffered six hits, nine walks and tossed five strikeouts.

Gary Combs hit a three-baser for the winning squad while Brian Augustine and Randy Swoyer hit doubles for the Bingman team.

In the Elks win, Dan Marshall was the winning hurler going all the way on the hill allowing 22 hits. Gary Wolford and Herb Sturgell were the Legion tossers. They allowed 19 hits.

Marshall and Ty Burns hit doubles for the winners.

John Hoffman Loft Wins Pigeon Race

The Circleville Pigeon Club held its ninth race of the 1970 Old Bird Series Sunday from Brinkley, Ark.

There were 26 birds from six lofts competing in the 600 mile event.

Justus Paces Washington

Tim Justus rapped a two-run homer in the first inning and then pitched two-hit ball to lead the Washington Township team to a 7-4 win over Laurelville in Tri County League action Monday.

He walked two and sent 13 Laurelville hitters down swinging in his winning effort. Unger was on the hill for Laurelville giving up eight hits, walking four and fanning eight.

Base running was a big factor as the Washington lads pilfered seven sacks in the contest.

Justus, Dave Valentine and Eric Allen had two hits apiece for Washington and Tim Richie and Jeff Amman had one each.

Bethel and Anderson had the hits for Laurelville.

Pickaway Beats Stoutsville Nine

Pickaway rolled over Stoutsville, 12-5, in a Tri County Little League major contest Monday.

Seth Dreisbach went all the way for the Pickaway nine giving up six hits, walking eight and fanning 10.

Brown was the hurler for Stoutsville, allowing 13 hits. Ron Palmer had three hits for Pickaway, including a triple, D. Konkle added three hits, including a double and Dreisbach contributed a triple to the winning effort.

Cassill had two hits to lead the Stoutsville boys.

Oilers Blast PPG

Circleville Oil blasted PPG, 21-6, in a slow pitch game played Sunday.

Rick Sims was three for three for the Oilers.

Willie Mays Powers Giants Past Cincinnati Reds, 13-6

CINCINNATI (AP) — At 39 years of age, Willie Mays is still amazing.

The "say-hey" kid from Westfield, Ala., still feeling as energetic as when he broke into the big leagues, hit two home runs, knocked in two runs and scored three runs Monday as the San Francisco Giants walloped the Cincinnati Reds 13-6, in the opener of a three game series at Crosley Field.

The home runs, his 13th and 17th, boosted his career total to 617, 97 shy of Babe Ruth's all time mark.

"I can't help thinking about the fact, I need 14 more hits for 3,000," said Mays. "But I don't think I'm going to be able to come close to Ruth's record."

"I plan to play as long as I can. Sure, I'm tired, but I have to play because we've been losing. I don't like to look back, because the time to look back is when you quit."

Although this is his 19th year with the Giants, Mays is still as enthusiastic as when he started.

"I get a thrill out of putting on a uniform for every game. I'm swinging real well this year, but I feel I still need a rest. You have to realize I'm 39."

Despite his age, Mays still swings a powerful bat and opposing pitchers are probably wondering if he'll ever stop hitting home runs. His home runs Monday night was the 62nd time in his career he has hit two or more home runs in a game.

His manager, Charlie Fox, is one of his most ardent admirers. "No wonder they call him amazing," said a happy Fox. "Don't say 'Old Willie' because he's got the build of a youngster and he's all muscle."

Rich Robertson, who won his fifth game of the year against six losses despite giving up six runs, was also praised by Fox.

"This is the way I know he can pitch," Fox explained. He's big and strong and doesn't realize his own potential. His control was a little bit off at the start. I was not thinking of taking him out after the first inning because that triple by Concepcion was the only real good hit off him.

Willie Mays, with a little help from his friends, is still amazing them, even at 39.

DuPont Gains Fifth Win In LL

Pickaway-DuPont downed Stoutsville, 8-2, in a Tri County Little League minor game Monday.

Tony Crist was on the mound for the DuPont boys giving up six hits, walking four and fanning 11.

Cave and Strehl shared pitching duties for the Stoutsville nine. They allowed five hits, walked eight and whiffed five.

Rhymer had two singles and Kern a double to pace the Stoutsville squad.

David Palmer rapped a double and Jeff Collins, Tony Crist, Chris Fouch and Rocky Huggins added singles to lead the DuPont attack.

Pickaway is now 5-0 in the league and will play Salt Creek Thursday at the Logan Elm diamond.

VFW Tops Burger Chef For 2nd Win

VFW tagged Burger Chef with their second loss of the season Monday night, 8-2, in the only Pony League action.

Jeff Hawks was the winning hurler allowing only two hits, and two bases on balls while fanning eight. Rick Woltz suffered the loss on the hill allowing seven hits and eight bases on balls, fanning six.

Mike Dulan banged a three-baser for the winners and Hawks had a double. Hershal Rose hit a double for the Burger Chef.

SHOULDER ARMS—Germany's Uwe Seeler (left) and Italy's Antonio Juliano give the hot shoulder to each other during World Cup soccer play in Mexico City. Italy won this one.

Allen Edges Past McCovey In Votes For 1st Base Spot

NEW YORK (AP) — With most of the starters all but determined, Richie Allen edged ahead of Willie McCovey at first base in the tightest race in the National League All-Star balloting.

2nd Place Worth More

NEW YORK (AP) — The second-place finishers in major league baseball's four divisions last season received an extra reward Monday—more money.

The Chicago Cubs, Detroit Tigers, Oakland A's and San Francisco Giants were granted additional shares by David L. Cole, who was selected to arbitrate the matter by the Major League Players Association and the owners.

The decision increased the shares for each club by $20,560, almost doubling their shares from last year's World Series. Now ranging from $1,126.89 per player for the Cubs to $1,253.82 for the Tigers. The difference varied on the number of players involved on each club.

The players association filed a grievance last November, charging the clubs unilaterally changed the player pool rule early in the season, thus reducing the benefits in violation of baseball's basic agreement with the players. A similar request for increases in third place shares was rejected by Cole.

Allen of St. Louis, hitting .285 with 57 runs batted in and 19 home runs, pulled ahead with 135,429 votes from the fans in the balloting released Monday by Commissioner Bowie Kuhn. McCovey of San Francisco, .245 with 54 rbi and 19 homers, attracted 131,616 votes in this last week of balloting.

The balloting, done in major and minor ballparks throughout the country, ends Sunday for the July 14 All-Star game against the American League in Cincinnati. The latest American League figures will be announced Thursday.

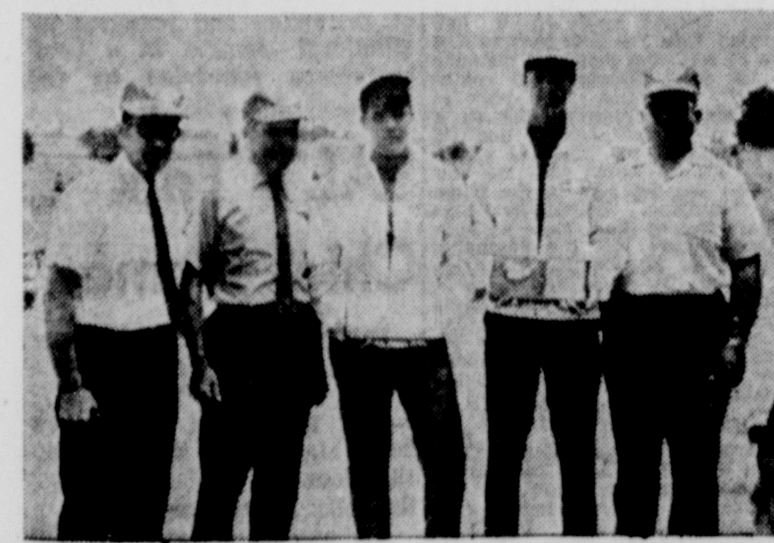

The only other close race is in the outfield, where Rico Carty of Atlanta, the league's leading hitter, pulled ahead of Willie Mays of San Francisco into second place although Carty was left off the original list and all his votes were write-ins.

Hank Aaron of Atlanta still leads everyone, with 390,357 as the top outfielder; Carty has 177,746 and Mays 173,012. Pete Rose of Cincinnati is a close fourth at 165,668.

The other leaders appear to be shoovins, with Glenn Beckert of Chicago holding a 29,000 vote lead over Felix Millan of Atlanta at second base; Tony Perez of Cincinnati at third; Don Kessinger of Chicago at shortstop and Johnny Bench of Cincinnati the catcher.

The reserves and pitchers will be picked by the opposing managers, Gil Hodges of the New York Mets in the National and Earl Weaver of Baltimore in the American.

Greg Heiskell Wins Local Pro-Youth Golf Tourney

Greg Heiskell shot a 45-40-85 to win the local Pro-Youth Golf Classic qualifier held Monday at the Pickaway Country Club.

He edged Greg Williams for top honors. Williams was second shooting 44-43-87.

Both Heiskell and Williams will represent Pickaway County at the State Pro-Youth Classic championship at the Westfield Country Club, Leroy, Ohio, on July 17.

First alternate will be Jeff Spires, 402 E. Main St. and second alternate will be Ray Williams, 118 Town St.

THE winner at Westfield will go on to the national championships to be played at the Twin Hills Country Club in Oklahoma City.

Heiskell is the son of Mr. and Mrs. William Heiskell, 912 Circle Drive, and Williams is the son of Mr. and Mrs. R. W. Williams, 540 Ridgewood Drive.

The event was sponsored by the Pickaway County Insurance Agents Association and local sponsors were Paul Brown Agency, Dale DeLong Agency, Hatfield Agency, Hummel and Plum Agency and Lawrence Johnson Agency.

Buis Is Winner At River Downs

CINCINNATI (AP) — Buis, fourth at the top of the stretch, came up on the outside Monday to take the featured eighth race at River Downs by a half length.

The winner had come from last and covered the six furlong event in 1:12, paying $35.20, $12.80 and $4.60.

Irish Sword placed at $5.80 and $2.80 and Purple Pigeon showed at $2.40.

Swingin' Marike paid $14.40 in the first and combined with Robert Kope in the second for a daily double of $46.40.

Attendance was 3,452 and the mutual handle was $289,983.

IN HONOR OF TED LEWIS'S
80TH BIRTHDAY

"There's only a few of us left."
But, life has sure been fine.
We used to get together at Hannu's and "Boyd's Happy"
There we would imitate Ted Lewis
The greatest showman in the band,
Who brought fame and popularity
To our home town.
The greatest in the land.
We're here tonight to honor him,
And to tell him to his face.
We need more Ted Lewis's in
The great — great human race.
"So be yourself son" and stay on "The Sunny Side of the Street".
And life will be so wonderful
To everyone we meet.
I'm glad you passed my way Ted,
You inspired me to reach the top
And now "to Everybody" is my goal, to do a lot for everybody.
80 years of service to the U.S.A.
The greatest nation in the world
Where the red, white and blue holds sway.
To you who would destroy her,
Take heed — While you may.
Because, we will get rid of you
And now "to Everybody"
He worked and made his own life.
A blessing to all he touched.
To keep this nation
Strong from within
You have gotta have Ted Lewis — stuff.

Houston Cougars Seek 12th NCAA University Golf Title

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Davey Williams brings his Houston hotshots back this week to the place where they started their almost yearly collection of NCAA university division golf titles.

It was in 1956 that Houston grabbed its first national college golf crown over the par-72, 7,120-yard Ohio State Scarlet course. And that's where the Cougars will start defense of their 1969 title Wednesday.

Since 1956, Houston has been the team winner 11 of 14 times. Only Purdue in 1961, Oklahoma State in 1963 and Florida in 1968 have cracked the Cougar reign.

Houston seems in good shape to win another one. Two of its four 1969 championship members, All-America John Mahaffey and Bruce Ashworth, are back.

Mahaffey and Ashworth teamed with the since graduated Bob Barbarossa and Doug Olson to give the Cougars last year's championship with a 72-hole score of 1,223. Wake Forest was second nine strokes behind at Colorado Springs, Colo.

Bob Clark of California State at Los Angeles, the 1969 individual champion, also returns. He will be bidding to become the fifth player and first since Dick Crawford of Houston in 1959-60 to win two straight crowns.

A field of 224 from 71 schools — there are 38 full teams — begins the first of four medal play rounds Wednesday.

Sixty-four of the best players competed today in the annual East-West All-Star best-ball matches. The West was after its seventh straight win and leads the series 12-12-1.

The rest of the field explored Ohio State's rolling layout, the scene for the fourth time since the championships began 73 years ago.

Tribe Signs Top 6 Draft Selections

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP) — The Cleveland Indians have signed their six top choices in last month's free agent draft, and 18 of the 39 players picked have come to terms.

Among the recent signees is infielder Harry Shaughnessy — the No. 3 choice — who has been assigned to Savannah of the Class AA Southern League. Shaughnessy is a 21-year-old switch-hitter from Williamsport, N.Y., who attended Western Michigan University.

No. 1 choice Steve Dunning, who has turned in creditable performances in his first two pitching starts, may be named to start against the New York Yankees when the Indians visit New York this week.

Sam McDowell was picked by Manager Alvin Dark to start the first game of Wednesday's doubleheader in Yankee Stadium, facing Stan Bahnsen. Dark hasn't named the second-game pitcher.

The Indians, with Monday and today off, scheduled a workout at Cleveland Stadium today, and will fly to New York tonight.

Timely Subject Wins Scioto Downs Feature

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Timely Subject came up from seventh place at the half to win the featured race at Scioto Downs Monday night for her fifth straight victory.

The 3-year-old mare paid $4.60 and $2.80. Kathy Averill returned $5.20 and $3.60 for second and Frosty Way was worth $4.80 for show.

The 6-1 daily double combination of Star's First Son and Wingait Dixie paid $327.40. The 2-9 quinella returned $32.10. A crowd of 4,208 wagered $205,406.

Houston Cougars Seek 12th NCAA University Golf Title

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Davey Williams brings his Houston hotshots back this week to the place where they started their almost yearly collection of NCAA university division golf titles.

It was in 1956 that Houston grabbed its first national college golf crown over the par-72, 7,120-yard Ohio State Scarlet course. And that's where the Cougars will start defense of their 1969 title Wednesday.

Since 1956, Houston has been the team winner 11 of 14 times. Only Purdue in 1961, Oklahoma State in 1963 and Florida in 1968 have cracked the Cougar reign.

Houston seems in good shape to win another one. Two of its four 1969 championship members, All-America John Mahaffey and Bruce Ashworth, are back.

Mahaffey and Ashworth teamed with the since graduated Bob Barbarossa and Doug Olson to give the Cougars last year's championship with a 72-hole score of 1,223. Wake Forest was second nine strokes behind at Colorado Springs, Colo.

Bob Clark of California State at Los Angeles, the 1969 individual champion, also returns. He will be bidding to become the fifth player and first since Dick Crawford of Houston in 1959-60 to win two straight crowns.

A field of 224 from 71 schools — there are 38 full teams — begins the first of four medal play rounds Wednesday.

Sixty-four of the best players competed today in the annual East-West All-Star best-ball matches. The West was after its seventh straight win and leads the series 12-1.

The rest of the field explored Ohio State's rolling layout, the scene for the fourth time since the championships began 73 years ago.

Tribe Signs Top 6 Draft Selections

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP) — The Cleveland Indians have signed their six top choices in last month's free agent draft, and 18 of the 39 players picked have come to terms.

Among the recent signees is infielder Harry Shaughnessy — the No. 3 choice — who has been assigned to Savannah of the Class AA Southern League. Shaughnessy is a 21-year-old switch-hitter from Williamsport, N.Y., who attended Western Michigan University.

No. 1 choice Steve Dunning, who has turned in creditable performances in his first two pitching starts, may be named to start against the New York Yankees when the Indians visit New York this week.

Sam McDowell was picked by Manager Alvin Dark to start the first game of Wednesday's doubleheader in Yankee Stadium, facing Stan Bahnsen. Dark hasn't named the second-game pitcher.

The Indians, with Monday and today off, scheduled a workout at Cleveland Stadium today, and will fly to New York tonight.

Timely Subject Wins Scioto Downs Feature

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Timely Subject came up from seventh place at the half to win the featured race at Scioto Downs Monday night for her fifth straight victory.

The 3-year-old mare paid $4.60 $3.40 and $2.80. Kathy Averill returned $5.20 and $3.60 for second and Frosty Way was worth $4.80 for show.

The 6-1 daily double combination of Star's First Son and Wingait Dixie paid $327.40. The 2-9 quinella returned $32.10. A crowd of 4,208 wagered $205,406.

Summer Theatre Attraction For Travelers In State

Ohio in July promises abundant entertainment for the summer traveler in the area of evening entertainment.

The Ohio Outdoor Historical Drama Assn. is producing the state's first open air symphonic drama, "Trumpet in the Land," in the newly constructed amphitheatre near Dover. Included in the tour of Ohio's "Valley of History" in Tuscarawas County, the trip could include a visit to the restored settlements of Schoenbrunn and Gnadentunten and the Fort Laurens Memorial, the only Revolutionary War fort in the state.

Opening July 3, the amphitheatre is expected to draw a large crowd to fill its 1650 seat capacity all during its 59 night run. Performances will run Tuesday through Sunday with special performances July 6 and Sept. 7.

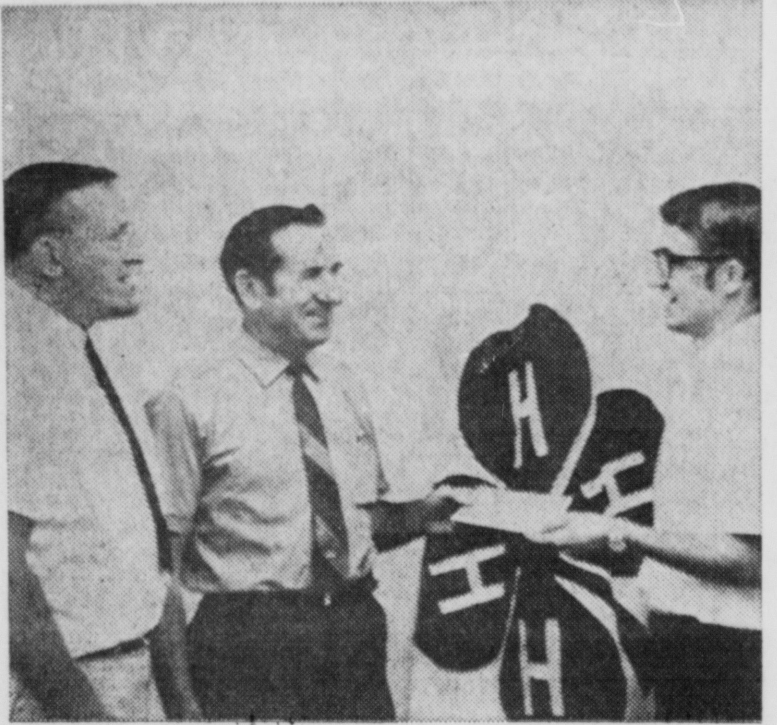

"Trumpet in the Land" deals with the life and times of Moravian missionary David Zeisberger and the establishment of three mission villages in the Tuscarawas Valley during the Revolution. Tickets are available by writing to: Drama, Box 275, Dover, Ohio 44622.

In Columbus, Kenley Players and Ohio State University will present a variety of summer theatre performances.

Louis Jourdan will star in Kenley's "Marriage Go-Round" June 30 to July 5. Beginning July 7 and running through July 12 will be "Showboat," a musical classic starring Ann Blyth, Terence Monk and Andy Devine.

Last year's sellout star Paul

OLLIE'S TAKE HOME

N. Court at Wilson

Lynde returns for another season July 14 in a delightful comedy, "Don't Drink the Water." Peter Marshall and Dody Goodman will perform in the Pennsylvania Dutch musical, "Plain and Fancy" July 21-26. "High Button Shoes" is the Kenley feature July 28 to Aug. 2. Jaye P. Morgan and Soupy Sales will head the cast.

Ohio State's College of the Arts will again present Jerome Lawrence and Robert E. Lee's new play, "The Night Thoreau Spent in Jail." It will play for ten performances from July 8-11 and July 13-18. "Thoreau" and all the other performances will be presented in the air-conditioned Hughes Hall Theater on the campus.

A British comedy, "Hail Scrawdyke," will have its Columbus premier in four performances from July 22 to 25. Following from July 29 to Aug. 1 is Gian-Carlo Menotti's "The Consul," an original musical drama set in an eastern European country — a drama of heart-breaking and electrifying tension as a man and wife try to escape to free Europe.

For ticket information write to The College of the Arts Summer Theatre, Division of Theatre, 154 N. Oval Drive, Columbus, Ohio 43210 or phone 293-2295 from noon to 4:30 on weekdays.

Mershon Auditorium will continue its popular summer "Far Horizons" travel film series in 1970. Among the programs are films on Morocco and Thailand by Margaret Baker and Bob Davis. The first will be presented July 1, and "Thailand" July 15. John Roberts screening of "New England" will be shown July 29. All programs are on Wednesdays at 8 p.m.

Ticket information is available at the Mershon Ticket Office by calling 293-2354.

Otterbein campus at Westerville will be the setting of five summer theatre plays, beginning with the popular comedy, "The Odd Couple." It is a hilarious tale of two bachelors — one a tense, meticulous individual, the other a messy slob — who decide to share an apartment. Performances will be July 1-3.

Second offering of the season will be a dual bill July 7 through 11, "Black Comedy" by Peter Shaffer and "The Tiger" by Murray Schisgal. "Black Comedy" is a farce written by one of England's outstanding playwrights which reverses light and dark, resulting in some top-notch slapstick humor. "Picnic," William Inge's drama of a young man's disturbing influence on the lives of a group of women in a small town, will occupy the July 14-18 slot in the Otterbein summer season. Moliere's comedy of love and avarice, "The Miser," will be presented July 21-25.

Concluding the season July 28-Aug. 1 will be a production of "Harvey." Mary Chase's fine comedy about the adventures of Elwood P. Dowd and his six foot friend has become an American classic.

Season tickets are available at a reduced rate. For more information, write Otterbein Summer Theatre, Westerville, Ohio 43081.

Shakespeare's best will be presented in the 1970 Great Lakes Shakespeare Festival July 10 to September 19. The 72 performances will include "The Merchant of Venice," "Julius Caesar," "The Comedy of Errors," and "R.U.R." by Karel Capek and "Volpone," or the Fox, one of Ben Johnson's finest comedies.

Ticket information may be obtained by writing: Great Lakes Shakespeare Festival, Lakewood Civic Auditorium, 14100 Franklin Blvd., Lakewood, Ohio 44107. Special discounts are available for groups of 25 or more and for students and children.

Adopted was an amendment by Sen. Robert C. Byrd, D-W.Va., saying Cooper-Church is not intended to restrict the President in the use of his constitutional powers as commander-in-chief to protect U.S. forces in Vietnam.

Fulbright, one of the five to vote against the amendment, said he did not think it made any substantive change in Cooper-Church but he was afraid a vote for the amendment would be interpreted as an easing of his bitter opposition to the invasion of Cambodia.

Sales Manager Named By O-I

Local Man Is Assistant At Boys State

Walter Pickel Jr., Circleville employee of the local DuPont plant and a member of American Legion Post No. 134, is participating as an adviser at the Ohio American Legion's annual Buckeye Boys State this week on the campus of Ohio University in Athens.

The Legion's Buckeye Boys State is an annual nine-day school in practical citizenship and government for high school juniors from schools throughout Ohio. It is the largest such operation conducted by The American Legion in the nation with some 1,360 boys participating.

Evidence of the high esteem in which the Ohio Legion's Buckeye Boys State is held is the fact the program has been awarded a George Washington Honor Medal by Freedoms Foundation, Valley Forge, Pa., in each of the past five years, and received the Governor's Award in 1968.

Pickel, is a member of the Buckeye Boys State Commission, a group of some 75 Ohio Legionnaires who are business men, attorneys, educators, elected public officials and others, all of whom are knowledgeable in the field of government from the municipal through the state level.

Pickel, is assigned as Assistant Director, Administration and Logistics of the school.

Summer Theatre Attraction For Travelers In State

Ohio in July promises abundant entertainment for the summer traveler in the area of evening entertainment.

The Ohio Outdoor Historical Drama Assn. is producing the state's first open air symphonic drama, "Trumpet in the Land," in the newly constructed amphitheatre near Dover. Included in the tour of Ohio's "Valley of History" in Tuscarawas County, the trip could include a visit to the restored settlements of Schoenbrunn and Gnadenhutten and the Fort Laurens Memorial, the only Revolutionary War fort in the state.

Opening July 3, the amphitheatre is expected to draw a large crowd to fill its 1650 seat capacity all during its 59 night run. Performances will run Tuesday through Sunday with special performances July 6 and Sept. 7.

"Trumpet in the Land" deals with the life and times of Moravian missionary David Zeisberger and the establishment of three mission villages in the Tuscarawas Valley during the Revolution. Tickets are available by writing to: Drama, Box 275, Dover, Ohio 44622.

In Columbus, Kenley Players and Ohio State University will present a variety of summer theatre performances.

Louis Jourdan will star in Kenley's "Marriage Go-Round" June 30 to July 5. Beginning July 7 and running through July 12 will be "Showboat," a musical classic starring Ann Blyth, Terence Monk and Andy Devine.

GOP Takes ...

The President has said he doesn't need the Tonkin Gulf resolution to back up use of troops in Southeast Asia. But he wouldn't get a chance to show it with the Foreign Relations Committee proposal, which does not require presidential signature.

In the only other vote Monday, the Senate approved 79 to 5 the addition of new language to the proposed Cooper-Church amendment to curb future U.S. operations in Cambodia. But the over-all significance of the action was unclear.

Adopted was an amendment by Sen. Robert C. Byrd, D-W.Va., saying Cooper-Church is not intended to restrict the President in the use of his constitutional powers as commander-in-chief to protect U.S. forces in Vietnam.

Fulbright, one of the five to vote against the amendment, said he did not think it made any substantive change in Cooper-Church but he was afraid a vote for the amendment would be interpreted as an easing of his bitter opposition to the invasion of Cambodia.
